First place in the boy-and-pet class went to Jeff Mongold, 733 Campbell St. Second was Richard Linville, of Bethany Lane, and third was Sean Arthur, 109 River Rd.

Haldeman continues Watergate testimony

Pressure on IRS 'possible'

WASHINGTON (AP) — H .R. Haldeman testified today he recalls no specific request to make the Internal Revenue Service more responsive politically, but conceded it was possible the White House was asked by others to approach the service.

"It's quite possible that was done," he said in beginning his third day as a witness before the Senate Watergate committee. "These would be inquiries that would come in from friends of the administration about foes of the administration."

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., announced at the start of the session that the panel will hear six more witnesses and then recess until after Labor Day. The witness scheduled to follow Haldeman is Richard Helms, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency and now ambassador to Iran.

Ervin took Haldeman again over the Sept. 15, 1972 meeting he and former counsel John W. Dean III had with the President. The senator pointed out that newspapers had printed extensive accounts of the Watergate break-in and the seven men who were indicted.

"All those facts had appeared in newspapers," Ervin asked. "Did you discuss any of those with the President?"

"I'm sure I did when they appeared," Haldeman said.

Q. Didn't that engender in your mind a reasonable suspicion that something was wrong in the Committee for the Re-election of the President?

A. It certainly did—the question was who was wrong and how high did it go.

Haldeman said Tuesday the absence of Justice Department evidence of Democratic plotting against Republicans last year supports his claim that the subject hasn't been investigated. The committee says it is exploring whether violent demonstrations were used as tactics against President Nixon.

Haldeman kept up his denials Tuesday that he or the President were involved in the Watergate wiretapping or coverup.

He said he believes if President Nixon ever supplies the committee with tape recordings of his White House conversations, the tapes will back up those denials.

"My opinion is that any reasonable person who listened to the tape as I did would come up with the same conclusion as he and I did," Haldeman said.

Under questioning by Republican counsel Fred Thompson, Haldeman took the offensive, reviewing a long list of acts he said were taken against the President, his family and his supporters during last year's presidential campaign.

Haldeman said these included violent demonstrations, heckling of Nixon and other speakers, burning of a campaign headquarters in Phoenix, Ariz.,

Impeachment of President asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move to impeach President Nixon has been introduced in the House because of the secret U.S. bombing in Cambodia, but the prospect of action on it appears remote.

The impeachment resolution by Rep. Robert F. Drinan, DMass., was greeted coolly by the Democratic leadership and the chairman of the committee to which it was assigned said no early action is planned.

Drinan himself told newsmen after he filed the measure Tuesday that he had decided against a procedure to force prompt consideration, believing members should have to consider the idea.

"A hearing on impeachment by the House of Representatives is the only possible way by which the questions of citizens of America can be answered and their confidence in government restored," he said.

This was the fourth time since Nixon took office that impeachment moves have been filed against him.

Drinan also said the House should consider what he called "impeachable offenses" committed by the President in connection with the Watergate scandal.

But Drinan, a Roman Catholic priest and frequent critic of Nixon's war policies, said it was not Watergate that prompted him to file the measure so much as "the recent revelation that President Nixon conducted a totally secret air war in Cambodia for 14 months prior to April 30, 1970."

Last year, during the controversy over bombing in Cambodia and the mining of Haiphong Harbor, three impeachment resolutions were introduced. They died without action.

Drinan's brief resolution "that Richard M. Nixon, President of the United States, is impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors" drew an immediate rebuke from Democratic House leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., also of Massachusetts.

O'Neill said in an interview that he had tried to dissuade Drinan from filing the resolution before either the Senate Watergate committee or special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox finished their probes.

O'Neill said he was concerned that Drinan was "known as a liberal anti-Nixon antagonist" and that "any early action could dissipate any future action."

Luncheon here Monday to honor Gov. Gilligan

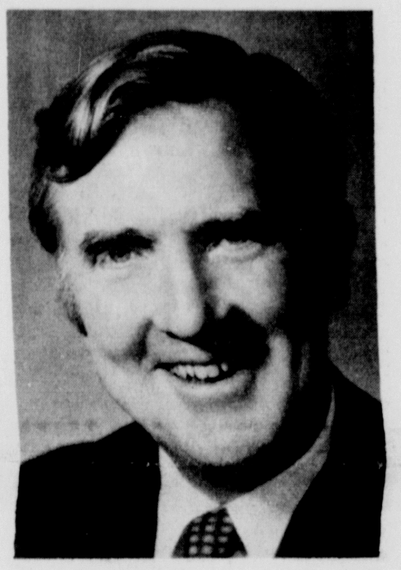
A special luncheon will be held in honor of Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan who will be visiting Washington C. H. Monday.

Milbourne Barney, chairman of the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee, said the Governor's Luncheon will be held at noon in the Terrace Lounge.

Gov. Gilligan currently is visiting several counties and county fairs throughout the area and the luncheon was arranged by the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee in cooperation with the governor's office. Gov. Gilligan also will be visiting the Clinton County Fair in Wilmington Monday afternoon.

The luncheon appearance will mark the governor's first visit to Washington C. H. since being elected to Ohio's highest office and will be the first trip here since September of 1968 when he was campaigning for election to the U.S. Senate.

Tickets for the Governor's Luncheon are priced at $3 per person. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Hugh Rea (335-5683), Mrs. Robert Rodgers (335-5806) or any Democratic precinct committeeman.



GOV. JOHN J. GILLIGAN

Rupert Ruppert, an assistant press secretary, said Gov. Gilligan has not prepared any special topic for the luncheon.

Nixon calls Watergate affair murky, small, unimportant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edging closer to an open counterattack on his Watergate antagonists, President Nixon has lashed out at those who "spend their time dealing with the murky, small, unimportant, vicious little things."

As for himself, Nixon declared: "We ... will spend our time building a better world."

The President selected an unusual forum — his toast at a state dinner Tuesday night honoring Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka — for comments apparently aimed at his opponents in the continuing Watergate controversy.

According to sources, Nixon has been charting a counterattack directed at the Senate Watergate committee and special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox—an offensive reportedly scheduled for launching later in August.

Nixon's apparent reference to his Watergate antagonists came as he said both he and Tanaka seek peace and progress in the world.

"Let others spend their time dealing with the murky, small, unimportant, vicious little things," he said. "We have spent our time and will spend our time in building a better world."

A few moments later, Nixon returned again to the subject, saying the nation should use its material and intellectual resources to build that better world and "not let ourselves be remembered only for the petty, little, indecent things that seem to obcess us at a time when the world is going by."

Ulbricht dies

BERLIN (AP) — Walter Ulbricht, the spade-bearded East German Communist leader whose monument is the Berlin wall, died today, the official news agency ADN reported. He was 80.

Ulbricht had been ill since he was replaced as party first secretary by Erich Honecker in May 1971. He retained his post as chairman of the State Council, making him titular chief of state until his death. He remained a member of the party's Central Committee and Politburo.

ADN reported earlier that Ulbricht suffered a stroke July 19.

The ADN announcement of Ulbricht's death made no reference to his illness or to the cause of death.

Beef industry asks ceiling be lifted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Representatives of the beef industry took their complaints to Washington today, amid a rising chorus of protests about a beef shortage caused by the continuation of price ceilings.

Many wholesalers in the New York City area planned a one-day shutdown today because of a lack of supplies and consumers across the country sought ways of balancing the budget and feeding their families.

A spokesman for the American Meat Institute said representatives of producers and processors would meet in Washington at 2 p.m. EDT with Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz in an effort to get the ceilings on beef prices lifted.

Cost of Living Council officials repeatedly have said the ceiling will stay on until Sept. 12. The council also announced on Tuesday that it would probe the entire profit situation in the meat industry and officials expressed skepticism about reports that wholesalers and packers could not afford to continue operations.

Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant on consumer affairs, said in New York on Tuesday that food prices probably will stay at present levels.

"Prices will start stabilizing and leveling off, but the days of cheap food are over," she said.

Fred Fillinger of the Internal Revenue Service in Cleveland, Ohio, said he was investigating complaints from commercial meat buyers who said they had been offered beef at illegal, over-the-ceiling prices.

Dave Doherty, director of sales for A&P in New Orleans, said the situation was getting worse.

"We're only able to get about one-third of our requirement for beef and we're scrounging up fryers (chickens) from any place we can get them," he said. "Some of the stores are already running short and we're beginning to put other things in the meat counter—canned hams, sausage, orange juice."

Spiral in food prices tabulated

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Soaring egg prices helped push the family grocery bill still higher during the last week in July, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows. The increases came on top of sharp boosts that followed the lifting of controls on food prices earlier in the month.

The AP checked the prices of 15 food and non-food items in 13 cities on March 1 and has rechecked them at the beginning of each succeeding month. A special check was made July 23, several days after the announcement of Phase 4 and the end of controls on all foods except beef.

The marketbasket survey showed that between July 23 and July 31, the total grocery bill was up in 12 of the 13 cities checked. In all but one of those cities, the total also increased between July 1 and July 23.

Of the total number of items checked, 17 per cent increased in the last week of the month, 66 per cent were unchanged, 5 per cent were lower and 12 per cent were unavailable on one of the two check dates.

Eggs and pork chops led the list of more expensive items, reflecting higher prices at the farm.

Eggs increased in price in 11 of the 13 cities during the last week of July with the boosts ranging as high as 33 per cent.

The cost of a dozen grade A, medium white eggs had gone up in eight cities between July 1 and July 23 and the new increases pushed the price up even higher.

For example, the price of a dozen eggs in Seattle went from 58 to 66 cents between July 1 and July 23—an increase of 14 per cent. Then the price went to 85 on July 31—another increase of 29 per cent.

The story was similar with pork chops. Center cut pork chops were up in 11 of 13 cities checked between July 1 and July 23. They rose again in 7 of those 11 cities between July 23 and July 31 and increased in an eighth city where the price remained stable earlier.

The meat manager of a supermarket in Los Angeles— where pork chops went from $1.48 to $1.85 between July 1 and July 23—was selling them at $1.99 a pound on Tuesday.

The Agriculture Department reported on Monday that farmers received record prices in June for hogs, potatoes, eggs and corn and the increases will be reflected later at the supermarket since processors and retailers are allowed, under Phase 4, to pass on boosts in the cost of raw agricultural products.

Because beef remains under a ceiling until Sept. 12, the prices of chopped chuck and all-beef hot dogs stayed steady.

The cities checked for the AP survey were: Albuquerque, N.M.; Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and Seattle.

The marketbasket bill went up everywhere but Atlanta with increases ranging from a fraction of a per cent in New York and Salt Lake City to 5 per cent in Seattle. The bill had gone up in all cities except Miami in the period between July 1 and July 23.

Probe of tragic Delta crash under way

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — "People were scattered all over the ground. There was no sound. They were all dead," nurse Maureen Kennedy said in describing the scene of a jetliner crash in which 88 persons died.

"There was nothing humanly possible to be done for those people. I never felt so helpless in all my life. I never felt so inadequate," she said after returning from the burned wreckage of a Delta Airlines DC9 that lay on a foggy runway at Logan International Airport.

One person survived Tuesday morning's crash, the worst ever at Boston. Air Force Sgt. Leopold Chouinard, 20, of Marshfield, Vt., was hospitalized in critical condition with burns over most of his body.

Delta Flight 723 sliced through a 2½-foot-high seawall and disintegrated while attempting a landing at the airport.

Federal Aviation Administration officials would only say that the pilot, Capt. John N. Striel Jr., was flying the jetliner 230 feet too low and 3,500 feet short of the usual touchdown point. An 11-man team from the National Transportation Safety Board today began trying to find out why.

Among the victims were Chester Wiggin Jr., a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Robert W. Moran, an assistant New Hampshire attorney general.

William C. Keepers, the airport's chief traffic controller, said "there was no word of trouble" in routine talk with the jetliner at 11:08 a.m.

"He (the pilot) was issued clearance to land, given runway visual range of 6,000 feet and acknowledged the transmission," Keepers said. "That was the last contact."

A minute later, the twin-engine plane clipped the wall, flipped over and broke apart. Its wreckage was sprawled across a gravel strip next to Boston's harbor and the 10,000-foot runway beyond.

The airport had been shut down once Tuesday morning because of bad weather but had been reopened. Witnesses said a fog bank was sweeping across the runways as the jet made its final approach.

The plane had left Burlington, Vt., at 9:12 a.m., 12 minutes behind schedule. It made an unscheduled stop at Manchester, N.H., to pick up passengers stranded there when a flight to New York was cancelled because of fog.

As the plane taxied away from Manchester, the pilot announced that the flight would be 45 minute late.

Charles R. Mealy of Bedford, N.H., realized that he couldn't make a business appointment on time and asked to be let off. The pilot turned the plane around and said that anyone who wished could get off.

Mealy was the only one.

The worst previous crash in Boston occurred Oct. 4, 1960, when an Eastern Air Lines plane crashed in the harbor after takeoff, killing 62 persons.

Tuesday's crash was Delta's first fatal crash in 20 years, an airline spokesman said.

FBI agents in closet near trial

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The judge in the Gainesville eight conspiracy trial has ruled that the discovery of two FBI agents with electronic eavesdropping equipment in a room next to the defense attorneys' headquarters "has nothing to do with the case."

But attorneys said they will refile a motion for a full hearing on the incident when trial of the eight antiwar activists resumes today before U.S. District Court Judge Winston E. Arnow.

Seven members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War and one sympathizer are accused of plotting violence during the 1972 Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

U.S. marshals said Tuesday they found the FBI agents in a broom closet in the courthouse building with their electronic equipment plugged in to telephone switch boxes. Defense attorneys were huddled in conference nearby.

The marshals said the agents carried a suitcase filled with two amplifiers, a battery, a transmitter and receiver, a blow torch, earphones, a small radio and assorted tools and phone jacks.

Dollar slumps

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar slumped again today on European foreign exchanges and some dealers blamed the impeachment motion against President Nixon.

The dollar moved down in London, Frankfurt and Paris but improved slightly in Tokyo. The big Zurich market was closed for a Swiss national holiday.

Fund impoundment for housing voided

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that the Nixon administration "ignored the stated goal of Congress" by halting approval of low-interest housing loans for poor rural Americans.

Tuesday's decision was the second time in eight days that U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey had ordered the government to release impounded housing subsidy funds.

The government has appealed Richey's earlier order to restore a much larger subsidy program administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Tuesday's order was directed to the Farmers Home Administration, which suspended the program for 18 months in January.

Last year, $900 million worth of interest payments were made under the program.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas G. Corcoran Jr., who argued the case for the government, said the decision probably would be appealed.

The government contended the FHA had the right to suspend the payments because, unlike the ones made by HUD, they do not come from a fund specifically appropriated for the purpose by Congress.

Richey, however, said government officials violated the constitution and "placed a bloackade in the road to decent housing for all."

The interest subsidy program was enacted in 1968, at the same time Congress set forth housing goals including six million housing units for low and moderate income families.

The decision was at least the eighth in recent weeks denying the constitutionality of President Nixon's withholding of funds approved by Congress.

Since the subsidy program was suspended, bills have been introduced in Congress to direct the administration to make payments of from $500 million to $1.2 billion a year under it.

Nixon has said he will withhold funds when necessary to fight inflation. Estimates of the amount he has impounded range from $8.7 billion to $18 billion.

Prisoner slain at Oklahoma pen

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — One inmate was stabbed to death and another was severely beaten Tuesday night as violence broke out anew in the riot-torn Oklahoma State Penitentiary, officials said today.

The death brought the official toll to three since the outbreak of rioting and burning last Friday which destroyed much of the prison's interior. National Guard troops have been searching the rubble, checking rumors that more inmates died.

Officials said today they are in control of the situation at the prison. But trouble has flared every day since the rioting was brought to end on Sunday.

Ed Hardy, Gov. David Hall's press secretary, said the inmate who was killed Tuesday night has been identified, but the name was not immediately released. Hardy said the assailant is known to officials but "it's too dangerous to go in and try to get him."

The latest round of trouble began Tuesday when more than 700 inmates, including the ones who led the weekend rebellion, were taken from cell blocks to a mobile kitchen for their first hot meal since the rioting began.

Authorities said the men refused the meal of meatloaf and green beans, moved to within a few feet of National Guardsmen and state troopers and shouted, "We want steak."

The National Guardsmen, with bayonets fixed on their rifles, drove the inmates into one pocket of the prison.

A second attempt to feed the unruly convicts four hours later was met with the same defiance.

Prison officials had said all the inmates had been shaken down for weapons and drugs. A head count was being made, and Hardy said today that only about 1,660 of the 1,706 convicts who were in the prison when the rioting started had been accounted for.

Hardy said, however, it was believed the remainder were hiding in various outbuildings and eventually would be found.

After the inmates refused their meal, Cell Block F, where the men had been housed, was ripped apart, officials said.

The cells had been repaired after the weekend violence, but state Safety Commissior Wayne Lawson said, "The cells look worse now than they did after the convicts first tore them up during the weekend."

Farm bill has chance of survival

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress could send President Nixon a major farm bill by the end of this week if backers of a Senate-passed compromise can outmaneuver House forces who want to ban food stamps for most strikers.

The Senate voted 85 to 7 Tuesday night for a Senate-House conference committee's four-year compromise version of the farm, food stamp and food-for-peace bill. The vote came after Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz switched signals and said he would urge Nixon to sign it.

Sen. Jesse A. Helms, R-N.C., was beaten 58 to 34 in his bid to have the Senate insert Housepassed language that would ban distribution of food stamps to most strikers. Senate-House conferees had broken up in disagreement earlier Tuesday over what to do about this provision.

The bill would set up a new cotton and grain crop support system and lower the annual subsidy ceiling to $20,000 per farmer.

It also would hike minimum milk price supports, make the agriculture secretary a virtual food-price czar, ban U.S. food-for-peace aid to North Vietnam unless approved by Congress, repeal a so-called bread tax and revamp food stamp programs.

Farm-state senators from both parties advised their colleagues that Butz, who had been threatening to call for a veto unless conferees accepted his terms on major disputes over crop and milk supports, suddenly changed his mind and agreed to support the compromise. The conferees had gone only half way toward meeting the objections originally voiced by Butz.

bombing of another in Hollywood, Calif., a "considerable amount" of vandalism, tire slashing and trash fires during demonstrations at the Republican convention in Miami, splattering of convention guests with eggs and tomatoes, indecent exposure and attacks on policemen.

Haldeman said there has been no investigation of these events and little publicity. He said he has supplied the committee with documented evidence that some of them took place with the knowledge and consent of agents of last year's Democratic presidential nominee Sen. George McGovern. He said others were planned by persons who supported McGovern but didn't take orders from him.

Committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., scoffed at Haldeman's accusations.

"From your description I just got an idea that the country must have been in a state of insurrection during the last election," Ervin said.

"Had you traveled with us, Mr. Chairman, you would have at times had that impression, because it was indeed created at some times during the campaign," Haldeman replied.

Scattered showers were expected to diminish from the west across Ohio late today and tonight as a weak cold front passed eastward beyond the state.

Cloudy skies today were expected to limit temperatures to the 70s. Readings tonight will drop to the low 60s or upper 50s.

Slow clearing is forecast from the west Thursday as a high pressure system now in the Plains moves slowly eastward. Afternoon temperatures Thursday should reach 75 or 80 degrees.

There were scattered showers over all of Ohio Tuesday. Rainfall totals for the month reached near normal amounts for most portions of the state, while some spots had excess rain.

Looking ahead for the remainder of the week, fair weather is scheduled, with temperatures averaging a little below normal for early August.

Fair, mild weather is expected in Ohio Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Highs Friday will be in the mid 70s and low 80s, warming to the 80s by Sunday. Lows will be in the mid 50s to the mid 60s.

Chamber panel checking out M.D. prospects

Seven prospects for new doctor's in Washington C.H. are being checked out by the Physicians Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, according to Larry Lehman, committee chairman.

Lehman said the prospects will be contacted by phone. Those expressing an interest in locating here will be sent brochures describing Washington C.H., followed by personal contact.

The committee is working with the hospital and its medical staff in obtaining the names of prospects and screening lists of doctors supplied by the American Medical Association.

Cambodian aid flow is doubled

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Aug. 15 cutoff date for American bombing in Cambodia approaches, Pentagon sources say the United States is doubling the rate at which military aid is shipped to the government in Phnom Penh.

"We want to give those guys every chance we can," said one qualified source.

Since Jan. 1, 1973, the United States has shipped to Cambodia 21 T28s, four C47 cargo planes, 21 river patrol boats, 30 armored personnel carriers, eight 155-millimeter howitzers, and a large number of mortars, smaller artillery guns, trucks, communications equipment, ammunition and small arms.

Pentagon officials say the only reason more sophisticated weaponry is not going to Phnom Penh is that Cambodian military forces are not sufficiently trained to use them.

Congress has approved legislation ordering President Nixon to halt all military activity in Indochina by Aug. 15. Until then B52 bombers and tactical fighter bombers like the F111 are expected to continue to hit concentrations of North Vietnamese Communists and Cambodian rebels.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger has said it is doubtful whether the Phnom Penh government can survive without American air power. There have been reports that the Americans are considering persuading the South Vietnamese to send some troops and planes to help out their Cambodian neighbors.

House cuts weapons bill $950 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has slashed a $21.4 billion weapons bill $950 million across the board but rejected all efforts to reduce U.S. forces in Europe and around the world.

A coalition of House economy bloc members and military spending critics won approval of the near $1 billion cut by a vote of 242 to 163.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., the outspoken military spending critic who proposed the cut, and conservative economy advocate Rep. John H. Rousselot, R-Calif., joined in arguing that defense will have to take cuts like everything else to meet the $271 billion spending limit voted by the House last week.

The House passed the $20.5 billion weapons bill 367 to 37 and sent it to the Senate.

Opinion And Comment

Turning point for the FBI

By almost all accounts, Clarence M. Kelley is a good man for the job of directing the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He was indeed depicted at hearings as being only lukewarm on civil rights, but a Senator not insensitive to the matter found the charges unconvincing and unanimously approved the nomination.

Kelley's immediate task will be to set about restoring the FBI to its position of trust and respect. He has already begun this process by saying that he would quit rather than permit the FBI to be used for political purposes. It has been so used, and that is at the root of its present troubles.

Congress also has a role to play. At this historic juncture, it should firmly assert its right to keep the FBI under review henceforth. Nothing less than this will suffice to assure the agency's unswerving responsiveness to the public interest and to that interest alone.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Energy industries help each other

When the American Petroleum Institute hired Joe Moody, retired head of the National Coal Policy Committee, as a counselor, the action was symbolic: it signified that the era of bickering and bad blood between different types of energy producers had come to an end.

With the sudden shortage of all kinds of fuel, the realization is finally dawning that there is going to be room for everybody in an energy seller's market that will surely outlast the century.

Who would have believed ten years ago that the oil companies would actually be praying for a turn of fate that would re-establish coal as a usable fuel for the electrical utilities? Yet that is precisely their state of mind; they would like to have more oil available for the business of keeping our automobiles running, which won't be possible until the utilities can find a way of using coal in a form that won't pollute our city air.

Both coal and oil will rejoice if the big General Electric Co. succeeds in working out its deal with Lurgi, the West German supplies of coal gasification equipment. The Lurgi gasifier changes coal into a clean gas which, if it can be made economical, would be a satisfactory substitute for oil as a utility fuel.

What GE wants to do is to use the Lurgi gasifier as part of a so-called combined-cycle system to supply gas for 30,000 HP gas turbines. The first turbine will be ready by 1975, and GE hopes to see a complete plant in operation by 1977.

GE SAYS it has every reason to believe that it can produce a highly efficient gasifier and big turbine system that will be both economic and clean. If it can do this, it would lift our Appalachian highlands out of the depression that has bedeviled them ever since the environmentalists cracked down on the use of coal for generating electrical power.

The harmony developing between the various fuel supply industries isn't complete, for the United Mine Workers Journal still takes an anachronistic poke on occasion at nuclear energy. But the gas industry is offering its own prayer that underground atomic explosions will succeed in unlocking immense reservoirs of natural gas.

A recent nuclear explosion in Colorado, set off at some 6,000 feet below ground, has proved that deep detonations do not hurt the surface or poison the atmosphere. The gas industry is still waiting to see how much gas will seep into the hole made by the nuclear explosion, but it has hopes that it has found the key to exploitation of a huge new natural gas source.

If "nuclear-tickled" gas offers anything, it will lessen the balance-of-payments problems that will be staggering enough when we begin paying the Arabs up to $30 billion a year for oil. The so-called cryogenic tanker will begin to deliver liquefied natural gas from Algeria to the East Coast of the U.S. in 1976, and by 1980, the importation of LNG should reach two trillion cubic feet a year, or 9 per cent of our present production. The cost of LNG, as delivered to the East Coast, will be three times what is currently charged for domestically produced gas.

WE HAVE ALREADY started to build cryogenic tankers in American shipyards, but there are only a limited number of harbors on our East and Gulf coasts that can accommodate the deep draft ships that would bring importation costs down. So there is every reason for the gas industry to pray that its underground "assist" from the nuclear energy industry will prove successful.

In any event, our energy producers are in a good frame of mind. They are moving ahead on all fronts to achieve break-throughs that will end the ridiculous state of affairs produced by the more fanatical environmentalists who wouldn't be satisfied with trade-offs between energy and cleanliness for an interim period.

And they are moving without any feeling that they must try to monopolize segments of the market for themselves.

Religious zeal marks Libyan chief

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associated Press Writer

BENGHAZI, Libya (AP) — The teachings of Islam and the revolutionary experience of Gamal Abdel Nasser are the two lodestars that guide Col. Moammar Khadafy's course as leader of Libya.

Behind many of his apparently eccentric actions since he took over the country in 1969 is an unshakeable belief that the tenets of the Moslem religion provide an answer to all the modern world's ills.

Khadafy looks for inspiration to what he considers the purest form of Islam—the fundamental words of God contained in the Koran, the Moslem holy book.

"If you people want a solution to all your problems, your sins and your human weakness, why don't you follow this book?" he asked in a recent lecture. "Why don't you resort to God in order to get salvation at the hands of the Creator instead of seeking it from your fellow creatures?"

With this religious zeal is a respect for the late Egyptian president that borders on adoration. When Nasser was at his most powerful in the late 1950s, Khadafy was a budding revolutionary absorbing every word.

Khadafy's political approach and many of his actions are based on Nasser's role as an Arab leader. He does not bother to conceal even from his Egyptian allies that he considers himself to be Nasser's spiritual heir, destined to unify the Arab world.

Khadafy has enlisted some formidable personal and national assets in the service of the cause.

At 31, he is ruggedly handsome; he is an indefatigable worker, constantly on the move within his country and in the Arab world. Everyone agrees that, whatever his other faults, he is personally incorruptible.

This is all the more remarkable because he has virtually unhindered control of Libya's huge oil income, now running to about $2 billion a year.

Out of this, Khadafy reportedly has supported U.S. black militants, sent arms to Irish and Filipino rebels and given money to Gen. Idi Amin of Uganda.

All his foreign activism is designed to enhance the Arab position versus Israel, Khadafy said in a recent speech.

"Israel's strength in the confrontation begins in the United States," Khadafy said. "When Libya supports black Americans and opens a new front, it is really defending Egypt against Israel."

He is less adventurous in using oil as a political weapon against the United States.

"Cutting off Arab oil is not the important thing," said one source familiar with Khadafy's thinking. "Let the fighting begin on the fronts, and we will cut off oil, but not before."

So far as the Libyan people are concerned, Khadafy stands above the 10 other young officers in the nation's revolutionary Command Council, the regime's ruling authority.

The recent crisis over Khadafy's resignation culminated in a mass rally marked by a near-hysterical outpouring of emotion from the crowd.

He finally agreed to rescind the resignation, after giving the crowd a four-hour speech— sometimes bordering on a stern lecture—explaining the reasons for his 12-day stepdown.

Khadafy said he personally had a number of conditions that should be fulfilled before his projected union of Egypt and Libya could go through. Since the Egyptians were obdurately rejecting the conditions, he said, he was stepping aside so as not to become an obstacle to union.

This simplistic explanation may have satisfied the crowd but not many long-time observers of the Libyan scene.

"The whole affair looked very much like a carefully planned maneuver to get himself off the hook because the Egyptians were resisting his cherished union," said one source.

Observers noted the similarity to Nasser's brief resignation after Egypt's defeat by Israel in 1967. Millions of Egyptians took to the streets begging Nasser to stay on, and he continued in power with more support than ever until his death in 1970.

Last April, Khadafy launched a "cultural revolution" in which "people's committees" in every state and private enterprise fired hundreds of bureaucrats and executives whom they considered corrupt. In addition, Khadafy arrested hundreds of "enemies of the revolution"—mostly Communists and members of the Moslem Brotherhood Organization.

"The cultural revolution will probably go on for another two years or so," said a high-level Libyan official. "Then those it placed in positions of command will operate for perhaps another two years. After that it may be time for new purging."

"YOU'RE GOING TO GET A LOT OF PEOPLE IN TROUBLE SOMEDAY."

Hal's back in the mailbag

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If a child's fingernails are cut before his first birthday, he will grow up a thief, according to an old belief in rural England. To prevent this, some parents there still bite the nails of infants.

Does the man in the moon seem farther away from you now than when you were very young? Well, he has moved off a bit. Every 30 years, astronomers figure, the moon's orbit around the earth moves one foot farther out in space.

Friends and relatives who live 50 or more miles apart don't visit or write each other as often as they did 10 years ago, but they do keep in closer touch by phone. The number of people who telephoned out-of-town relatives and friends rose from 59 to 63 per cent between 1962 and 1972, but personal visits dropped from 70 per cent to 58 per cent. A survey by the Bell System also found that, in the last decade, the number of people who make more than a dozen long distance calls a year rose from six to 11 per cent.

If you're sailing for Europe this winter, keep your eyes peeled for icebergs. The American Geographic Society expects between 600 and 700 will be sighted near shipping lanes, nearly twice the yearly average of 365. There were 1,012 sighted in 1912, the year the Titanic sank. After breaking off from their glacier bases, the bergs take three years to reach shipping zones. The average berg then weighs about 150,000 tons, about one-tenth its original weight.

Quotable Notables: "For a man to pretend to understand women is bad manners; for him to really understand them is bad morals." — Henry James.

Forgotten heroes: Without taking a drink, Akim Akintola, 24, of Nigeria, ate 30 packages of potato chips in 29 minutes, 50 seconds, in Manchester, England, on Feb. 28, 1965.

Worth remembering: "Money won't buy love, but it'll sure put a guy in a mighty good bargaining position."

It was Arthur "Bugs" Baer who observed, "A good neighbor is a fellow who smiles at you over the back fence but doesn't climb over it."

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Would-be female bus driver fears her past

DEAR ABBY: A woman who is about to make application for a job driving a school bus is worried about her past catching up with her.

She got a dishonorable discharge from the service 17 years ago, and is afraid that when her application for this job is received, they will start a thorough investigation of her past, which will include her service record, and everything will come out.

She has no criminal record of any kind, but she understands she has to have FBI security clearance for this bus driving job. The only flaw in her record is this dishonorable discharge which, I may as well tell you, came about when she and another girl were discovered having a romantic relationship. It was only a passing fancy, or an experimental thing, you might say, and never occurred again. She is now married, has a family, and is living a normal life.

Must she be branded all her life for this single incident?

ANXIOUS TO HEAR

DEAR ANXIOUS: Driving a school bus does not require FBI clearance. Furthermore, the response from the Army to an inquiry about this person would be: "Dishonorable discharge-unsuitable for military life." (Unless national security is involved, nothing else would be divulged.)

DEAR ABBY: Last November I became engaged. I was so excited at the time that I asked a girl I work with (I'll call her "Mazie") to be one of my bridesmaids. I had seen Mazie only at work, never outside the office.

Now that I know her better, I am very sorry I asked her to be a bridesmaid. She gets drunk and talks dirty. She is very loud and extremely pushy where men are concerned.

Worse yet, my fiance can't stand her. He's afraid she will ruin our wedding with her drinking and dirty mouth.

To give you an idea of what kind of girl Mazie is, she keeps telling me she hopes the bridemaid's gown will be plenty sexy so she can show off her "38s."

How can I get rid of her politely? Or am I stuck with her?

SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: There is no way you can get rid of her "politely," which means either you are stuck with her, or you will have to get rid of her impolitely.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the young couple who couldn't find a church and minister for their post-pregnant wedding:

You should do a service to others in such straits by informing them of Unitarian-Universalist churches and ministers. They value individuals for honesty and candor; one need not "belong" to a Unitarian-Universalist church to use the building. Witness the many Unitarian-Universalist churches that serve as forums, or centers for unusual music, art debate, or whatever in the search for truth and for meaningful living.

If the couple are straightforward, and respect their prior scheduled commitments of the origanization, I am sure they will find a sanctuary in a Unitarian-Universalist church, and a friend in the minister there.

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Stimulating Mars influences now heighten your ambitions and energies, but don't overtax yourself. Delegate some work to associates.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Tact and diplomacy needed on all fronts now. Some associates will be "edgy," difficult to please, unwilling to cooperate.

(May 22 to June 21)

Mercury restrictions lift. A favorable report now gives you the "green light" to go ahead with important plans, decisions.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

A good day for dealing with superiors, with persons in authority generally. Any or all should be receptive to your ideas.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Your innate self-will and "bossiness" could be liabilities now. Many are oversensitive; will resent interference of any kind.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A more or less routine day, but some slightly unconventional and off-beat activities during the evening hours could be fun.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your Venus continues to encourage artistic endeavors. A unique creative job should work out exceptionally well.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

If you've had difficulty in launching a pet project because of opposition, you'll get a chance to prove a significant point shortly after noon.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Stimulating influences. An unexpected happening in the forenoon could lead to an unplanned — and profitable — trip.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Care needed in matters of communication. Misinterpretation of a letter or a message could lead to errors or misunderstandings.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Personal relationships under excellent influences. A good day for benefitting through friends and close associates.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Caution urged in financial matters. Pay no heed to reckless friends who urge you to spend foolishly.

YOU BORN TODAY are a vibrant and interesting individual, endowed with excellent gifts of leadership and organizational ability. Idealistic, enthusiastic and remarkably intuitive, you have the capacity to make friends in all walks of life — and keep them. You are versatile, too, and the fields in which you could succeed are almost limitless, but you could make your most outstanding mark in either the worlds of science or music. You have a strong sense of justice, and could make an estimable success of the law; could also excel in painting or photography. If business attracts you, the world of finance would be your best bet.

PEDAL PALS 4-H

The Pedal Pals 4-H Club held a meeting in the home of Bernie and Mary Lutz. Charlene Williamson brought her little niece, Holly, who was here visiting from Florida. Mrs. Allen Tracy's mother, also came to the meeting.

President Bernie Lutz gave out ESA bike rider kits so members will be in the bike ride to raise money for St. Jude's Hospital. We then practiced pedaling and braking our bikes. We learned not to slide our tires when we stop. Jay Smith brought refreshments of chocolate chip cookies and Kool-Aid.

Ohio Perspective

Eastern Ohio has own dude farm

By HENRY HEILBRUNN
Associated Press Writer

QUAKER CITY, Ohio (AP) — Richard and Mabell Starr, who run a dude farm near this eastern Ohio town, have solved the problem of world travel.

They let the world come to them.

"If we can't go to see the world, we'll let the world come here," said Mrs. Starr.

The 200-acre Starr layout, one of 20 such farms signed up as members of the state Farm and Rural Vacation Association, is one way of keeping Ohioans down on the farm.

The Department of Economic and Community Development promotes these rural vacations to keep Ohio dollars at home.

They're not fancy vacations, being big on clean air and an occasional horseback jaunt over the back 40 acres, but they are also big on rest.

"It's relaxing," said Hester Sensel of Cincinnati, one of the Starrs' guests. "We had never been here or met anyone before we came. You do what you want.

"I have not cooking unless I want to help out. There are 200 acres to roam around on. You just thoroughly enjoy yourself."

The Sensels have been visiting the Starr dude farm for five summers.

"We have people of all ages and from every walk of life the truck driver to the highest executive," said Mrs. Starr, who has spent all of her 57 years on Rural Route 1, Quaker City.

The Starrs entertain around 375 persons around the year with home cooking, fireside chats and wiener roasts. They raise 50 head of beef cattle and 50 head of sheep. They grow grass and hay, and keep some chickens, ducks and riding horses around for the visitors.

"We have found it quite profitable," Mrs. Starr said. "It's a two-way exchange. While our guests are learning about the farm, we're learning about their way of life.

"We have had a number of guests from out of state and out of the country. A couple of years ago we had guests from France, Malaysia, Pakistan and Germany. They really take to it.

"In all the time they had been here, the people from France had not had the opportunity to communicate with American people as they did here.

"We just operate like one big family. They really got to know about America and family living."

The Starr farm charges $65 per person over 10 for one week's stay, and $40 for children under 10.

Miss Depugh, Mr. Barton exchange vows

Rev. Robert McNeely performed the double-ring ceremony which united in marriage Miss Karen Lynn Depugh and Michael Dean Barton. The ceremony took place in the Church of the Nazarene in Mount Sterling.

Two seven-branch candelabra and four circular candelabra with palms completed the setting. The pews were marked with single candelabra, greenery and bows. Mike and David Depugh lighted the candles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Depugh, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Barton of London are parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Kathy Woodfork, vocalist, and Miss Twila Taylor, organist, presented a half-hour prelude of music preceding the wedding ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of crepe cream puff, with Chantilly lace extending down the front of the gown and 50 satin-covered buttons. The long Bishop sleeves also ended in buttoned fitted cuffs. The long flowing train was caught at the back. Her mantilla of silk illusion was edged in matching lace. The bride's only jewelry was an opal necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried an arrangement of deep purple statis, stephanotis, pink sweetheart roses, daisies, pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Jo Lynn LeBeau was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Gary Rohrer (Sharon Lilly), Debbie Krupla and Becky Johnson. Kathy Depugh was the junior bridesmaid.

Miss LeBeau wore a lavender chiffon floral formal length gown with empire waist. A large lavender bow was at the back. She wore a matching picture hat. The bridesmaids wore matching gowns except in pale pink and matching picture hats. The gowns were made by Mrs. Gary Depugh. They carried hurricane lamps with daisies, carnations and baby's breath in pink and lavender.

Cheryl Depugh, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She was dressed like the attendants and carried a basket of spring flowers.

Gary Summers of London served as best man for his cousin. Seating the wedding guests were Gary Rohrer of New Holland, senior usher, Roger McCoy of Washington C. H., Robert Langley and Dave Kelly, both of Bloomingburg. Craig Depugh, nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of melon double knit with long sleeves with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a full length gown of pale yellow and green chiffon with yellow accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of melon carnations and red rosebuds.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL D. BARTON

Junior hostesses were Terri and Cindy Depugh.

The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a bridal couple. The cake was made by Mrs. Gary Depugh. The gift table was decorated in pink and lavender, with a bowl of spring flowers in the center. Miss Louann LeBeau presided at the guest book.

Following a trip to Aurora, the couple is residing at Rt. 2, O'Day-Harrison Rd., near Mount Sterling.

Both are graduates of Miami Trace High School. The groom is engaged in farming.

BROILED TOMATOES

They look as good as they taste!

4 medium tomatoes
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup grated (medium fine) Swiss cheese, lightly packed
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Rinse tomatoes; cut away stem ends; cut each tomato in half crosswise. Cut a thin slice from bottom of any of the tomato halves that do not stand straight. Mix mayonnaise, cheese and paprika; spread over top cut surface of tomatoes. Place in a shallow pan — foil-lined if you like. Broil 4 or 5 inches from high heat until tomatoes are warm through and topping is browned — 4 or 5 minutes; watch so as not to scorch. Makes 4 servings.

Theater ballet to perform in Wilmington

With the help from a matching funds grant-in-aid from the Ohio Arts Council, the Columbus Theater Ballet Association will bring its ballet company to Wilmington College for a week of intensive work starting on Aug. 5th. The week will culminate on August 10 with a performance in Boyd Auditorium in which will be presented pieces from the repertory of the Company.

Originally incorporated nine years ago as the Christopher Ballet Company, the organization changed its name recently to reflect the development which it has undergone while fulfilling its goals of promoting, fostering, maintaining and supporting ballet as an art form.

Wilmington College was chosen as an appropriate site to bring the company together for intensive work in preparation for the 1973-74 season because it offers lodging, rehearsal rooms and auditorium in a single spot. The auditorium makes is possible to offer a performance to the Clinton County audience in line both with the goals of the Company itself and of the Ohio Arts Council, which is charged with the support and dissemination of the arts throughout the entire state.

The happy and unplanned coincidence of the Summer Arts Festival at the College and the residence of the Columbus Theater Ballet with its performance gives to the audience the opportunity to enjoy an additioal art form.

NEW YORK (AP) — Had a quiet, intimate lunch the other day with some 15 scriveners, a pride of CBS News executives, Hughes Rudd of Waco, Tex., and Sally Quinn of Savannah, Ga., and Washington, D.C.

The gathering occurred at an exclusive restaurant, the kind of place where, if you pop a button, a waiter immediately hurls a tablecloth on it and seats a party of four.

The idea of the lunch, aside from free eats, was to let the scriveners talk with Rudd and Miss Quinn, who on Monday take over as the coanchors on the revised and revamped "CBS Morning News" show.

Rudd, 52, seemed more at ease and mildly amused at the goings-on. Miss Quinn, 32, appeared slightly tired and worried that someone would ask again what she felt about a New York magazine article.

Said article was about her. It suggested she was a blonde bombshell and alleged she is one of those chic, inner-circle Washington journalists who thrive on the outrageous.

The article was read by practically everybody who is anybody in New York and Washington, which may have driven down the magazine's circulation that week. Miss Quinn, meanwhile, got mad at the author.

Rudd hasn't been embroiled in such matters. He's been a wandering newspaperman most of his adult life, save for World War II service as an Army artillery spotter pilot in North Africa and Europe.

A 14-year veteran of CBS News duty in such places as Berlin, Moscow and Vietnam, he still seems more Waco than world-traveler. He just needs a chaw of Day's Work and a toothpick to complete the image.

He wandered from table to table at the luncheon, amiably damning the feebleness of Manhattan chili and praising the gusto of the "Five Alarm Chili" sold by the late Wick Fowler, a Texas newspaperman.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

The field editor of a well-known New York subsidy publishing firm will be in Chillicothe in September. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. Please mention your phone number. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

Kroger accord said reached with union

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A tentative contract agreement has been reached between representatives of striking machinists and the Kroger Co., a company spokesman said Tuesday.

William Whiting, advertising manager of Krogers' Cincinnati-Dayton division, said details of the agreement would be announced after the union membership votes on ratification. He declined to give any other information.

Earlier Tuesday, striking Teamsters ratified a new three-year compromise contract with Krogers. The contract provides a three-year pay increase of $1.60 an hour, subject to lifting of the 5.5 per cent wage guidelines. The ratification vote was 142-30.

Garland Greer, Teamsters' business agent, said the drivers will not return to work until the other two unions striking the retail food chain come to terms.

No progress was reported in talks between Kroger officials and the third striking union group, the warehousemen.

The strike began July 22 when members of Teamsters Local 100 voted to refuse the original Kroger contract offer. Later in the week, Kroger warehousemen and mechanics voted to strike. Most company retail clerks also went on strike in sympathy with Teamster demands.

Despite the continuing strike, Whiting said all 67 area Kroger stores will be open regular hours Wednesday.

He said the full-time opening of all stores is possible because high school and college students are now sufficiently trained to help Kroger administrators, wives and secretaries man cash registers.

Rhodes plans meeting with county chairmen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Gov. James Rhodes, who is seeking another term in the statehouse under the theme "Let's Hear It for the Taxpayers," will meet with 70 Republican county chairmen here Aug. 9.

Rhodes said he won't ask the chairmen to make any commitment to his candidacy. "I just want to relate to them what is happening, what can happen and what must happen," he said.

The former governor said his campaign will begin officially Nov. 16 with a luncheon in Columbus.

Nixon housing costs now secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has clamped a lid on information about expenses at President Nixon's residences at San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla., but officials say it's only temporary.

Both the head of the General Services Administration (GSA) and a White House spokesman said the news embargo will be off as soon as a comprehensive report on public spending on Nixon's private residences is completed.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., accused the White House at a news conference Tuesday of attempting to block a congressional investigation of federal funds spent on Nixon's California and Florida residences.

He said GSA director Arthur F. Sampson refused to give him information he was seeking on the spending. Brooks is chairman of the Government Activities Committee.

Sampson, later in the day said the information was being withheld but not solely on White House orders.

"The decision was made jointly by GSA, the Secret Service and the White House," he said.

Sampson added:

"We have said all along that we were preparing a comprehensive statement to get out all the facts in an understandable manner. Our objective is to release the information all at one time to dispel the idea in the public's mind that large amounts were spent to improve the President's home. The piecemeal release of information has caused this misunderstanding."

At the White House, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said "we are working toward a complete analysis" and disclosure of what he called "security oriented work" at Nixon's homes.

He said the information would be available soon, but "I don't know how soon soon is."

Figures previously made public by the administration indicated a total of $1.9 million had been spent on the construction, operation and maintenance of security installations at San Clemente and Key Biscayne. The White House originally reported only $39,000 in improvements at San Clemente.

Recent news reports have predicted the GSA is about to issue new figures placing the figure at between $3.5 and $3.7 million.

$1,000 reward offered for poisoner of wolves

NEW YORK (AP) — A $1,000 reward has been offered in the search for the poisoner of two wolves that toured North America to promote the protection of endangered species.

Clem, a 4-year-old 110-pound Alaska tundra wolf, and Jethro, a 7-year-old 88-pound Canadia timber wolf, were found dead Sunday.

Giant snail fought in Florida

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It can grow to more than a foot long, protected by a five-inchwide shell.

It will eat the paint and stucco on your house and whatever's growing in your garden, leave its slimy stain on your walls, jam up your lawnmower and sabotage your air conditioner.

It's bisexual. And prolific— 600 offspring each year, almost two a day.

It's the giant African snail— no creature of the comic books or a satirical magazine but a continuing pest in Florida.

The government even has a Federal Giant African Snail Emergency regulation.

It was amended last week to lift quarantines on items the snails might hitchike on out of Broward County , Fla., and parts of Dade County, mainly north of Miami and Opa-Locka, a Miami suburb. But the Agriculture Department added a new area of Opa-Locka to the regulations, a southeastern section of the city where the snails were discovered in February.

A two-year survey found no new snails at the sites of Broward County's one outbreak and some Dade County infestations of the pest, a native of Africa not found elsewhere in the continental United States but spotted in Hawaii.

Two Dade County sites remain under the restrictions that prohibit travel of uninspected and uncertified home, garden and construction materials such as soil, compost, sand, gravel pipes, plant debris, sod and forest products.

The original outbreak was discovered in 1966, when an eight-year-old boy brought two of the nightmarish snails home from Hawaii in his pocket and freed them in the backyard of his grandmother's North Miami home.

Three years later, department scientists found 14,000 of the pests—250 were found in one woman's backyard in a half hour.

Taylor-Burton divorce planned

ROME (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor spent the day before the cameras today, Richard Burton stayed out of sight, and neither one had any public comment on their divorce plans.

A spokesman in New York for the Burtons announced Tuesday that they would get a friendly divorce in Switzerland, their legal residence.

"They are not going to fight each other," said the spokesman, John Springer. "They are very amicable toward each other."

He added that the Burtons are parting because of "a series of personal disagreements" and not because either one is romancing with somebody else.

Secret Service activity curbed

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Secret Service may not exclude persons from public presidential appearances because of their dress or political philosophy, a federal judge has ruled.

But U.S. Distrct Court Judge James B. McMillan said assuring the personal safety of the president is a valid reason to keep individuals away from the chief executive.

McMillan's ruling Tuesday came after lengthy hearings in an $840,000 civil suit filed by 14 youths against Secret Service Director James Rowley and local police officers. They said their constitutional rights were violated when they were forcibly prevented from attending Billy Graham Day ceremonies at the Charlotte Coliseum Oct. 14, 1971. President Nixon was present at the ceremonies.

Skylab crew plans full day of work as illnesses ease

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With their space station shipshape and their stomach woes nearly gone, the Skylab 2 astronauts today planned their first full day of experiments.

Emphasis was on medical experiments, but some scientific work was scheduled, as well as a checkout of earth resources photosensors to be used later in the week.

Astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma were in the fifth day of their record 59-day mission.

All three reported Tuesday they were feeling much better after bouts with motion sickness in their weightless world.

They were well enough Tuesday to forego medication for their queasy stomachs, but they still didn't have too much of an appetite at meal time.

The motion sickness slowed their work and they fell more than a day behind in setting up housekeeping in the laboratory. But the work essentially was completed Tuesday and Bean, a Navy captain, reported the lab was almost shipshape.

The sickness also forced postponement until Saturday of a space walk that had been planned for Tuesday by Garriott and Lousma. Purpose of the excursion will be to replace film in an array of solar telescopes and to erect a new protective sunshade to reinforce one installed by the Skylab 1 crew in May.

The astronauts also began an experiment to determine how two minnows react to weightlessness while swimming in a container of water.

"They seem to be completely disoriented," Garriott reported. "They're swimming pitched down in small circles. They apparently think they're climbing and they're pitching down to overcome that.... They're swimming in very tight circles. They can't make up their minds which is up or down."

Newark police interviews set

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Newark will begin interviews soon to fill the jobs of 22 patrolmen who were fired for calling in sick in a dispute over pay and fringe benefits, according to Police Chief Charles Spurgeon.

Spurgeon said city officials have asked for a civil service examination in August so new policemen can be hired.

An attorney for the policemen, Virginia Weiss, said the dismissals will be appealed to the city safety director. She contends that the mass sick call was not a strike and that the men should not have been fired.

Meanwhile wives and children of the fired policemen picketed city hall Tuesday. Witnesses said that more than 20 persons carried signs protested the firings.

'Brown market' in cattle seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Canadian meat packers are outbidding instate firms at auctions to produce a flourishing "brown market" in the wholesale cattle industry, say Ohio meat buyers.

Meanwhile, the Internal Revenue Service office in Cleveland said it has begun investigating reports that some meat packers have been offering to sell meat at illegal prices to commercial buyers.

At least one packing company, Dinner Bell Meats of Defiance, Ohio, said it will close its slaughter houses Wednesday because it was unable to purchase cattle at auction Monday.

Marshall crash litigation ends

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — U.S. District Judge K.K. Hall has closed the final litigation stemming from the 1970 Marshall University jetliner crash which killed 75 persons.

Hall did not disclose amounts of settlements reached.

Twenty-seven actions in numerous courts were transferred to the district court and two major pretrial hearings were held to discuss the applicability of West Virginia's wrongful death statute.

Phase 4 failing to sell itself?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Two weeks old today, Phase 4 seems not only to have failed in selling itself but to have fostered confusion and aroused a small but incendiary-looking rebelliousness.

The latter, for the moment, may seem to be isolated among beef raisers who decline to ship their product to market until after Sept. 12, when Stage B of Phase 4 will permit higher prices.

Meanwhile, packinghouse workers are being laid off and butchers in some areas are forced to limit sales to customers. At once, therefore, the heat of rebellion threatens to spread to labor and housewives.

Claism by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, that the shortage is unnatural and artificially induced by suppliers does little to make the problem less real, nor does it remove responsibility from government.

The fact is that in a series of phases, the federal government has assumed the role once played by the market place. If suppliers are withholding their product from market, well then, what is government going to do about it?

But this question is merely one small problem in the midst of a larger one, which is Phase 4 itself, whose stated goal is for "eventual decontrol through increased supplies and productivity."

Is it effective? Anyone can keep his own scorecard by referring to these stated objectives:

—To moderate the rate of inflation which has existed in the United States during the first six months of 1973 with a minimum adverse effect on supply.

—To continue expansion of the U.S. economy to fulfill its potential with further increases in employment.

—To strengthen the international position of the dollar.

—To build confidence of business, industry, agriculture, the Congress, and consumers necessary to promote an in increase in capacity and supply and to reduce long run inflationary forces.

—To work with business, industry, agriculture, and the public to terminate controls as soon as possible in a manner which will avoid unacceptable rates of inflation after Phase 4.

Growing price pressures that haven't yet been felt at the retail level now pose an ominous threat to that program and to economic stability. Little in Phase 4 suggests that higher prices can be averted.

The index of prices received by farmers for the month which ended July 15 did indeed drop, but only because export controls on soybeans led to a sharp drop to $6.69 a bushel from a price of about $10 a month earlier. But a sharp drop in soybean prices depresses the farm index, hiding the bad news about other prices.

Hog prices during the period rose to $41 per 100 pounds, a jump of $3.80 in one month. Potato prices of $8.03 a hundred were at a 50-year high.

Stage B will permit much of these higher prices to "passthrough" on a dollar for dollar basis.

Find Japanese beetles near San Diego Zoo

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Twelve Japanese beetles, destructive insects not normally found west of the Ohio River, have been trapped at Balboa Park near the San Diego Zoo, say county agriculture officials.

"So far, they're confined to the park as far as we know. We hope we can keep them there and wipe them out," said San Diego County Agricultural Commissioner Kenneth K. Little.

Less than one-sixth of the Sahara desert is sandy.

See no progress in telephone talks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Contract talks between the General Telephone Co. and striking communications workers are scheduled to resume Thursday.

The two sides recessed Tuesday with no sign of progress.

Company spokesman Don Detweiler said the union's latest proposal was not significantly different from earlier ones.

Company negotiators were scheduled to meet today with members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in Minerva whose contract expires Sunday. Detweiler said the IBEW represents 150 operators and installer-repairmen in the Minerva district.

Tuesday's meeting between the company and the Communication Workers of America came after a three-day pause in negotiations. General Telephone negotiators had asked for the time to study the new union proposal.

Neither side has revealed details of the proposals. The union is reportedly asking for a 10 per cent raise. The company has offered a 7 per cent wage increase.

Meanwhile, vandals chopped through a 1,200-line telephone cable on the east side of Lucasville early Tuesday morning, cutting service to the Southern Ohio Correctionl facility.

A 3,000-line cable in downtown Portsmouth also was cut, isolating Southern Hills Hospital for the second time in two weeks.

Some 2,800 operators, repairmen and linemen walked off the job July 16 in a wage dispute.

The company claims that it has suffered $675,000 in damaged equipment and telephone lines since the strike began.

2 bombs found at Army offices

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Local officials and FBI agents today were continuing to investigate two bombs found in the offices of the Findlay and Bowling Green Army recruiting stations Tuesday.

The cylindrical bombs were removed without incident. They are believed to have been inserted through mail chutes.

The bombs were discovered following a warning sent to a radio station in Ann Arbor, Mich. by a group calling itself the "People's Revolutionary Army of North America."

The warning indicated that the bombs would be placed in the two offices. It also said that the group would pay for any damage caused nearby residents from the blasts.

Music being piped in for slaughter cattle

TOLLESON, Ariz. (AP) — Popular music, with brief breaks for weather and news, is piped around the clock to cattle being fattened at the Swift & Co. packing plant here.

About 400,000 cattle a year keep calm with the music as they lounge beneath the water sprays and sunshades that protect them from the desert heat.

"It's worked like a charm and has actually cut the amount of bruising by at least 50 per cent," the spokesman said. "The music makes for happier cattle and better meat, even if it doesn't exactly turn out bovine culture buffs."

Driver cited in crash at intersection

One arrest resulted from three traffic accidents investigated by city police Tuesday.

Emilie Kerlin, 26, Fort Mitchell, Ky., was cited for failure to maintain assured clear distance after a 3:55 p.m. accident at the intersection of Dayton Avenue and Van Deman Street.

Police said the Kerlin car and one driven by Charles E. Yoss, 24, Scio, were eastbound on Dayton Avenue when Yoss stopped for a traffic signal. The Kerlin car hit Yoss' vehicle in the rear when it was unable to stop on the wet pavement.

The front bumper, both front fenders and headlights of the Kerlin car were damaged, while damage to Yoss' car was confined to the rear bumper.

In other accidents:

TUESDAY, 1:14 p.m. — Cars driven by Beverly J. Giacomini, 28, of 825 Clinton Ave., and Portia B. Cunningham, 35, Rt. 5, were involved in a rear-end collision at the intersection of Court Street and Circle Avenue; damage moderate.

TUESDAY, 3:05 p.m. — Cars driven by Floyd R. Hatcher, 35, Forest, and Harry T. Hayslip, 71, Rt. 1, were involved in a collision at the intersection of Delaware Street and Western Avenue; damage minor.

July soaks city with 6.77 inches

Washington C.H. got a real drenching in July, but some areas of the county experienced a goose-drowning month.

The precipitation total for the city, as tabulated by Coyt A. Stookey, official weather observer, was 6.77 inches, 2.80 inches in excess of the 3.97-inch average for the seventh month of the year. This brought the total for the year to date to a hefty 30.71 inches. The January-through-July average is 25.55, so the excess now stands at 5.16 inches.

Gale Parrett, who keeps the weather statistics at Parrot Station, in the Fayette County "rain belt" seven miles to the north, measured a whopping 11.51 inches of precipitation in July, with showers or thunderstorms on seven of the 31 days. In July, 1972, there were 18 days with rain but the total was only 5.74 inches.

Stookey's Washington C.H. report showed rain on 10 days, ranging from a trace on the 27th to 1.36 inches on the 15th, 1.51 inches on the 3rd and a soaking 2.53 inches on the 21st.

Daily maximum temperatures in the city ranged from a low of 73 on the 21st to a high of 89 on the 3rd, 8th, and 14th. Minimum daily temperatures ranged from a high of 72 on the 9th and 10th to a low of 53 on the 12th.

Here are the actual Washington C.H. precipitation figures for the year to date as compared with the established averages:

	Act.	Avg.
January	2.01	3.38
February	1.33	2.44
March	4.07	3.99
April	6.34	3.99
May	4.55	3.81
June	5.64	3.97
July	6.77	3.97
Totals	30.71	25.55

County gets relief money

Fayette County received $2,448 during July as a general relief subsidy, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. A total of $566,106 was distributed during the month to the state's 88 counties.

The subsidy program is wholly state-financed and is for the purpose of helping defray the administrative and general relief costs of the individual county welfare operations. It is in addition to federal-state financed assistance programs, such as Aid for Dependent Children, Aged, Disabled and Blind.

The amounts distributed to area counties were: Clinton, $2,550; Greene, $4,226; Highland, $3,474; Madison, $2,100; Pickaway, $2,382, and Ross, $6,306.

Hobart Co. posts record first half

TROY, Ohio — The best first half in the Hobart Manufacturing Co. history was recorded this year for both sales and net income, according to a report to shareholders released Tuesday, covering the first six months of 1973.

Net sales of $156,940,000 increased over the first half of last year by $35,201,000 or 28.9 per cent. Net income of $10,967,000 was $3,866,000 greater than the previous record in the first half of last year — and net income per share increased to 97 cents from 63 cents.

These new records exceeded by sizable margins the previous first-half records set in 1972, during which period three major production stoppages occurred, according to Hobart President and Chief Executive Officer David B. Meeker.

Hand-powered bike donated to crippled Cincinnati boy

CHISHOLM, Minn. (AP) — An 11-year-old Cincinnati, Ohio, boy will be the next recipient of a hand-powered bicycle—thanks to the people of Chisholm, Minn.

The bike, which is actually a large tricycle because it has three wheels, is the product of inventor Angeilo Vittori of Chisholm.

It is expected to be finished in about a month and will go to Chris Bochenek, who is paralyzed from the waist down because of a gun accident in May 1972.

The boy's father, Joseph, learned that Gov. George Wallace of Alabama was presented with a hand-powered vehicle by Chisholm residents, after Wallace was left paralyzed by an assassin's bullet.

The elder Bochenek wrote to Veda Ponikvar, publisher of the Chisholm Free Press, which led fund drives for the special Wallace bike and for several other cripples.

Bochenek wanted to purchase a hand-operated machine for his son. But Mrs. Ponikvar said a youth group at St. Mary's Catholic Church at nearby Keewatin, Minn., raised the $250 for the cost of the bike, along with enough money to ship it to Cincinnati.

Each bike is handmade by Vittori, who has a fulltime job as a mechanic at a nearby taconite plant.

The machine has a frontwheel drive and the impaired person steers the vehicle with the pedals. There are two wheels in the rear to give the bike greater stability.

Vittori vowed to build such a machine for persons with paralyzed legs after watching a Chisholm girl on crutches attempting to keep up with her companions on bikes.

Storms dot eastern third of nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms dotted the eastern third of the nation today while fair, dry and unseasonably cool weather descended on the mid-continent.

Thunderstorms crackled in the warm, humid air at scattered locations in the Gulf and south Atlantic states. Other thunderstorms erupted over the Ohio Valley and near a storm system off the southern coast of New England.

In the West, thunderstorms rolled over the Sierra Nevadas, the Colorado River Valley and the central and southern Rockies.

Heaviest rains were in the Southeast where 2.2 inches fell at Greenwood, Miss., and 1.3 inches at Bristol, Tenn.

Temperatures dropped into the 40s over the northern Mississippi Valley as cool, dry air settled into a wide area from James Bay in Canada to the southwest Plains.

Nighttime cooling also brought relief to the intermountain region which experienced 100-plus temperatures Tuesday.

Two range fires ignited by lightning Monday "blew up" late Tuesday, covering 35,000 acres in Idaho. Afternoon temperatures in the area reached above 100 as more than 300 men struggled to bring the blaze under control.

A spokesman for the Bureau of Land Management said he could not estimate when the Idaho fires could be controlled.

Dense fog and low clouds rolled over much of the Pacific coastal region.

'AW, GO AWAY! — "One more photograph and I'm going to scream," says Buda, an 8-week-old lion cub at Kings Island. Diane Roberts, a hostess in the park's Lion Country Safari preview center, says lion cubs, like children, can be very impatient at times, especially during photographic sessions.

Summertime temperatures of 120 degrees fahrenheit are common in the Sahara desert.

13-year-old boy in custody after liquor shoplift

A 13-year-old's taste for liquor led him into trouble Tuesday when he was arrested by city police for allegedly shoplifting a pint of "screwdriver."

Police said a clerk at K & K Carryout, 602 Clinton Ave., stopped the youth after he left the store with the bottle. The incident occurred about 12:35 p.m.

Police also received a report of a stolen bicycle. A 10-speed bike owned by Larry Johnson, 620 E. Paint St., was taken from a garage at the rear of his home sometime Sunday night, police were told. The bicycle was valued at $89.

City board OKs 4 new teachers

The NJROTC, under the supervision of Commander Robert Self, retired, will leave Aug. 11 for Norfolk, Va., where they will spend a week aboard the U.S.S. Iwo Jima. The group will return Aug. 18.

The teachers who were hired are Robert Yates, distributive education; Richard Roth, biology; Mrs. Claudia Coe, elementary education and Mrs. Francis Tye, who will teach reading part-time.

B.F. Goodrich hit by harassment suit

HARTFORD (AP) — The B.F. Goodrich Co. used "surveillance and harassment" in an effort to force two Waterbury, Conn. rubber companies out of business according to a $28.5 million damage suit filed against the large Ohio firm by the two companies.

The suit contends that since 1967 representatives of B.F. Goodrich have "engaged in predatory practices aimed at eliminating" the Waterbury companies from the market.

Fayette County man sentenced on 3 charges

Penwell was arrested in connection with a safecracking at a Fairfield County lumber firm in which $4,200 was stolen.

Bengals gird for pre-season bow

Super Bowl champs on Cincy worksheet

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals open with the best this Saturday night when they take on the world champion Miami Dolphins in a pre-season game at the Orange Bowl. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. and a capacity crowd of more than 80,000 will be on hand.

Coach Don Shula's Dolphins already have a game under their belts, a 14-3 victory over the College All-Stars last Friday in Chicago.

"THIS WILL be the home opener in the pre-season for all their proud fans," said Paul Brown, Bengals' head coach and general manager. "They have a win streak going and they want to keep it that way.

"They are the National Football League champions and they deserve it," Brown added. "They are sound in every phase of the game and have a tremendous coach in Don Shula.

"Playing the Super Bowl champions in the first game of the pre-season isn't an easy task, but we know what we are in for," said Brown. "Miami is proficient in every phase of the game."

The Dolphins, who own an 18-game winning streak, have a balanced attack, featuring the running of Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Mercury Morris, the passing of quarterback Bob Griese and the receiving of Paul Warfield and Howard Twilley.

The Bengals will open the game with almost the same lineup they had last year. Ken Anderson, starting his third season, will be at quarterback and his wide receivers will be Charlie Joiner and Chip Myers. Essex Johnson and Doug Dressler will start at the running back positions.

The Bengals held their one and only training camp scrimmage last Saturday and running back Charles Clark, a 12th round draft choice from Bethune-Cookman, emerged as a top candidate for a starting spot.

"Clark ran well and blocked well and certainly merits a further look off his performance," Brown said. "He's the big back-type (6-2, 239-pounds) and appears to have plenty of potential."

ALL-PRO defensive tackle Mike Reid, defensive end Sherman White and tight end Bob Trumpy are on the doubtful list for the Miami game. Reid has a bruised knee, White is recovering from an off-season knee operation and Trumpy has a pulled back muscle.

The Bengals and Dolphins have met four times in pre-season play with each team winning two games. In 1969 the Bengals prevailed 28-21 and in 1971 it was Cincinnati 27, Miami 10. The Dolphins won 20-10 in 1970 and 35-17 last year.

The two teams also have split four regular season games.

The game will be televised by WLW-T in Cincinnati and will be broadcast on the "Bengals Network" with WLW the originating station.

Virginia Slims tennis tourney under way

DENVER (AP) — Top-seeded Billie Jean King and Rosie Casals sped through their opening matches here Tuesday before 3,000 spectators, the largest second-night crowd on the Virginia Slims Women's Professional Tennis Tournament tour.

Mrs. King downed Pam O'Shaughnessy 6-1, 6-1, while Miss Casals coasted through a 37-minute match against Jill Schwikert, defeating her 6-0, 6-3.

In the longest match of the day, Karen Krantzcke and Kristien Kemmer volleyed through two even games which were decided by tiebreakers, the victory going to Miss Krantzcke 7-6, 7-6.

Bengals not eating well; meat shortage hits camp

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)— Members of the Cincinnati Bengals football team are finding things like lasagna and spaghetti on the dining table these days as a result of the beef shortage.

"It's a tremendous problem. At the moment, we're getting one-sixth of what we're ordering," said Wayne Brewer, who is in charge of seeing that the Bengals get enough to eat.

Brewer, food service director at Wilmington College, said his meat supply has dwindled from an average of 800-1,000 pounds a week to 400.

To combat the problem, Brewer said he's been forced to add more fish, poultry and prok to the daily menu.

"And we go with the fillers like lasagna and spaghetti. In addition, they'll average about seven to 10 pounds a day of cold cuts," he said.

Brewer said close tabs are kept on daily consumption by the 75-80-member Bengal group.

It's a big family to keep fed, but the Bengal organization cuts no budget corners when it comes to food, Brewer said.

"Quantity and quality, it's first-class all the way. They want the players well-fed and that's what we try to do," he said.

For instance, last week's grocery list looked like this:

—180 pounds of dinner carved prime rib.

—120 pounds of stripped New York cut steak.

—145 T-bone steaks.

—137 14-ounce stripped sirloin.

—75 whole chickens.

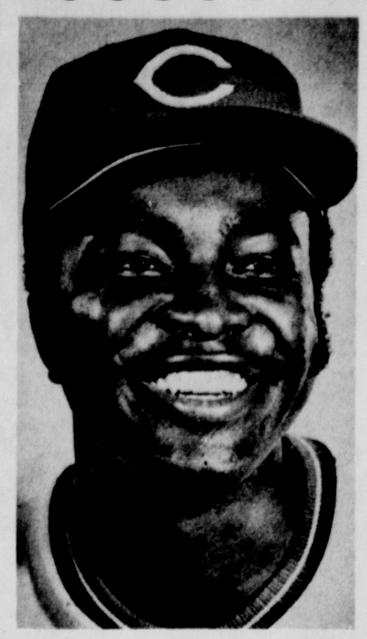
"We started out with meat making up 80 per cent of the menu. Now we're down below 50 per cent. The shortage is a serious problem. Who would believe a nation as rich as ours could have this happen?" pondered Brewer.

He figures food costs average $7.50 and $9.50 per day per player for the National Football League club.

Isaac Curtis injury worrisome to Brown

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Bengals Coach Paul Brown said Tuesday the injury Monday to wide receiver Isaac Curtis, Cincinnati's first round draft choice, bothers him.

"I hope he gets over it quickly enough to learn what we're doing," Brown said of the rookie who has just reported to the team from the college All-Star squad. "We plan to keep him playing behind Joiner at the start to watch him closely."



JOE MORGAN

Aaron delivers No. 701

Morgan's bat flogs Atlanta in twinbill

ATLANTA (AP)—It wasn't what you would call an artistic success, but for the Cincinnati Reds and Joe Morgan in particular, it was a highly successful evening.

Morgan, the Reds' All-Star second baseman, riddled the Atlanta Braves pitching staff for seven hits, including three two-run homers, the last one capping a five-run uprising in the nightcap for a 13-11 Reds victory after Cincinnati had taken the opener Tuesday 9-5.

Morgan's heroics overshadowed Braves' slugger Hank Aaron's 701st career home run, which was a solo shot in the ninth inning of the opener, his 28th of the year.

"That was the best doubleheader I have ever had," said a happy Morgan, who raised his average 11 points with a 7 for 10 evening and seven runs batted in. He also scored four runs, stole two bases and had a pair of doubles as he jumped to .299.

"Before the games I felt like I was trying to guide the ball. So I toled myself to forget it and swing hard," Morgan explained.

Morgan admitted he was just trying to get a single in the ninth inning of the nightcap with Pete Rose on second and the score tied at 11-11.

"I was just trying for a base hit. A single was called for and I was trying to hit the ball up the middle."

It did just that, except it kept going and went over the center field fence, 402 feet away from home plate and gave the Reds a sweep and got them within 3½ games of the West Division Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost to Houston.

"I figured we had a lock on the game going into the nihth inning," said Braves Manager Eddie Mathews. "It was really a long night, especially when you lose."

The doubleheader took 6 hours, 18 minutes of actual playing time to complete, in addition to a pair of rain delays totalling 32 minutes in the second contest.

In all, there were 38 runs scored, 52 base hits, 8 home runs, 2 triples and 10 doubles.

In addition to Morgan's three circuits, giving him 15 for the season, Cincinnati also got a three-run homer from Bill Plummer and a solo shot by Bobby Tolan in the nightcap and a two-run blast from Tony Perez in the opener.

Darrell Evans stroked his 30th for the Braves in the nightcap while Aaron and losing pitcher Carl Morton each had one in the first game.

Pete Rose, the NL's top hitter, also had a good night, stroking six hits and scoring five times in the twin bill.

Webster now trading bait

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers are loaded with talented linebackers, and former All-Pro George Webster realizes that makes him potential trade bait.

"I've kind of felt it," the 27-year-old former Michigan State All-American said before a recent training camp workout.

Pittsburgh is shopping for some help at wide receiver, and that makes the angular, broad-shouldered Webster even more expendable.

An All-Pro for three seasons with Houston before being hampered by knee injuries in 1970 and 1971, he came to Pittsburgh last season in a trade that sent wide receiver Dave Smith to Houston.

Webster said he believes his knee trouble is a thing of the past and that he can perform with his old efficiency.

He reported to camp shortly after having four wisdom teeth pulled, so he wasn't up to par in initial workouts.

He's come on strong in recent drills, but the cold fact exists that he's competing at the most top-heavy positions on the Steeler team.

Meanwhile, defensive end Craig Hanneman was carried from the Pittsburgh Steelers' practice field with an injured right knee Tuesday. The extent of his injuries will be determined later today.

The Steelers said another second-year man, wide receiver Stahle Vincent, would undergo surgery on his right knee today. Vincent, who injured the knee last week, spent all of last season on the injured reserve list with an injured ankle and thumb.

Around other NFL training camps Tuesday, Minnesota Viking Coach Bud Grant sent his team through its longest scrimmage yet, a session highlighted by defensive end Carl Eller's charge into the backfield that sent rookie running back Tony Chandler reeling for several yards after a pitchout.

Center Mick Tingelhoff was kept out of action after he was hit on a knee while running back Clint Jones sat out the afternoon practice after his knee developed some fluid.

At Normal, Ill, Coach Don Coryell of the St. Louis Cardinals stressed fundamentals as his team went through a double practice session in preparation for its first preseason game at San Diego Aug. 11.

The New Orleans Saints had running back Pete Van Valkenburg, third-round draft choice from Brigham Young, back in action. He rejoined the squad for the first time since pulling a hamstring muscle two weeks ago.

Tackle Don Croft, one of the Buffalo Bills' few defensive standouts last season and seemingly assured of a starting position this season, underwent surgery at Buffalo General Hospital for torn ligaments in his right knee. He injured the knee in scrimmage Monday and will be out for an indefinite period, the Bills said.

The Dallas Cowboys said wide receiver Bob Hayes and outside linebacker D.D. Lewis are the only doubtful starters for the team's exhibition opener against the Los Angeles Rans Friday night.

Hayes is complaining of a sore knee and Lewis pulled a groin muscle during workouts.

Torrid Weiskopf favorite in rich Westchester golf

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—Tom Weiskopf, suddenly the hottest property in golf, seeks a further domination of the pro tour in the rich Westchester Classic this week, but troubled Lee Trevino will be among the missing in the $250,000 event.

Weiskopf, who has won the British and Canadian national titles in his last two starts and is the winner of five of his last eight starts, is the favorite for the $50,000 first prize in the 72-hole tournament that gets underway Thursday.

The site is the tight and tidy Westchester Country Club course, at 6,164 yards one of the shortest the touring pros play all season. But it's hills and vales, woods and glens make it a demanding test with a premium on driving.

But while Weiskopf was geared up to continue his streak, Trevino took some unscheduled time off. He'd committed to play in this event but decided to go home to El Paso, Tex. and his wife, who is expecting their third child. Trevino indicated that he may skip the PGA next week as well.

He, along with Billy Casper, are about the only glamor names missing in the 147-man field.

Weiskopf's chief challenge comes from powerful Jack Nicklaus, the defending champion who hasn't played since the British Open three weeks ago.

He's a four-time winner this season, ranks third on the money list and—at least until Weiskopf began his heroics—generally was regarded as the game's premier performer.

Other top attractions include Australian Bruce Crampton, a former Westchester champion who has won four times this year and tops the money winning list with more than $241,000; South African Gary Player; U.S. Open titleholder Johnny Miller and the still-dangerous Arnold Palmer, who has finished 10th or better in four of his last five starts.

The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by Hughes Sports Network.

Anita Brewster wins Scioto Downs feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Anita Brewster took the lead at the half and held off a stretch challenge by East Direct to win the featured race at Scioto Downs Tuesday night.

Winning by a head in 2:06 2-5, Anita Brewster paid $4.80, $3.80 and $3. Easy Direct returned $7.20 and $4 for second and Miracle Widow, $4.80 for show.

Tri Chapel and Sun Chief combined for a 2-4 daily double payoff of $33.80, and the 8-9 quinella was worth $66.60.

A crowd of 4,830 wagered $225,958.

Hartman set for USAC race crown

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Larry "Butch" Hartman, shaking another of his typical slow starts this season, accelerates toward an unprecedented third straight U.S. Auto Club stock car crown.

His Dodge Charger didn't finish a race in the first two months this year, yet the 33-year-old veteran owned a 30-point lead over runnerup Ramo Scott in the current USAC point standings last week.

"We always get off to a slow start. I just can't explain it," said Hartman.

He swept by Scott, the season-long USAC pacesetter, with victories in three of his last four starts and loomed a favorite for the Pocono (Pa.) 500-mile Classic Sunday.

Hartman had 1,195 points to Scott's 1,165 with eight major races remaining this year.

No one ever has won three straight titles in USAC history although Norm Nelson collected three championships in several seasons.

Hartman followed a different path to the 1972 title. He failed to win a single race, but finished second four times, third and fourth three times each in 18 USAC events.

"I'm winning more this year because we've got a new car," he explained. "It's running better although the engine's about the same."

Orioles stop Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Baltimore Orioles pitcher Jim Palmer has the Cleveland Indians in the palm of his hand, but he doesn't know why.

Palmer allowed the Indians only three hits Tuesday night as the Orioles beat the Tribe 5-1. The right-handed hurler has beaten the Indians the three times he has faced them this season and has allowed them only seven hits.

"I don't know why I do so good against the Indians," Palmer said. "They have a good ball club. Good hitters, good fielders—I just don't know why I do well against them. Granted they haven't been getting the pitching they need, but they're youngsters—give them time."

The one run the Tribe put on the scoreboard came in the eighth inning when Charlie Spikes hit his 19th home run of the season over the left field fence.

"I didn't have the right grip on the ball," said Palmer, who is now 13-6 and leads the Orioles in victories. "It was an inside pitch that just hung in there, but Spikes pulled it. I knew it was over the fence as soon as he hit it."

Palmer said he threw mostly fastballs.

Plenty to Eat wins

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Plenty to Eat, leading all the way, held off a late challenge to win Tuesday's featured $2,600 eighth race at River Downs by a half-length.

He ran the six furlong race on a sloppy track in 1:13 2-5 seconds.

Opening lead - six of spades.

The Rule of Eleven can be used to advantage by either side. It is based on the widely accepted custom of leading the fourth best card of a suit.

Thus, when West leads the six of spades — the fourth best card of his longest suit — both East and South can apply the Rule.

South subtracts six (the card led) from eleven. The answer tells him there are five spades higher than the six in the North, East and South hands.

He sees one of them in dummy and one in his hand, so he knows that East has three spades higher than the six. This doesn't help South in the present case, but that's the method he uses to acquire the information.

East applies the Rule in the same way, and in this instance with highly beneficial effect. He also knows that North, East and South have five spades higher than the six. Since he has three of them and dummy one, he knows that declarer has only one spade above the six.

East makes use of this knowledge in choosing his line of defense. After he plays the spade jack on the opening lead, which loses to the king, South leads a diamond to the king and a diamond back. On this trick East discards his queen of spades!

When West wins the diamond, he is in fine position to cash his spades and defeat the contract two tricks.

Now let's suppose East is unfamiliar with the Rule of Eleven. In that case he might discard a heart or a club instead of the queen of spades, and West would then find it mighty difficult to lead the ace of spades.

West might be afraid that South had started with the K-Q-x of spades and lead a heart or a club to try to put partner on lead for a spade return. Either play would hand South the contract.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Weight Loser's Bout with Gout

I have lost 15 pounds on a high fat diet, but seem to have gained the annoying condition of gout. Can there be any relationship between the two?

Mr. B.L., Ohio

Dear Mr. L.:

It is difficult to believe that you could have come to this scientific conclusion alone, without the help and understanding of your own doctor. For this observation has been made many times by physicians. In fact, it is a major reason for avoiding attractive sounding but potentially hazardous "way out" diets. Of course, there is always the possibility that a high uric acid level existed in your blood prior to embarking on this diet. In any case, it is important that any gouty tendency that you have be kept under observation and treatment.

There are many excellent drugs which can lower the level of uric acid in your blood stream. These drugs are taken under a doctor's direction and adjusted at regular intervals depending on the findings of repeated blood examinations.

Your story serves a very important purpose. It emphasizes that no tempting, new-fangled diet should be undertaken without a doctor's approval. Every diet has a new twist with a single objective. It is to tempt people who want to lose weight by eating unlimited quantities, by drinking alcohol to excess, and by doing little or no exercise. A single truth about good dieting must again be emphasized. Count your calories and limit them, while readjusting deeply ingrained eating patterns. Only in this way can you lose weight without inviting the kind of complication your describe.

My daughter and I are absolutely miserable for five days before our menstrual period sets in. I have grown to accept this, but I wish something could be done for my daughter, so that she does not have the lifelong problem that I have had.

Mrs. R.T., Ga.

Dear Mrs. T.:

I don't know how old your daughter is, but I gather she is an adolescent or young adult. I certainly do not think that one week out of four of discomfort is a necessary burden to be borne with such stoicism.

Gynecologists have long since abandoned the idea that such misery is a normal and accepted part of the menstrual process. Advancements in the past 25 years have been remarkable. There are a variety of well chosen hormones that can help readjust the cycle and avoid the intensity of discomfort. First, of course, the presence of any malformations must be ruled out. In the absence of these, the chances are great that you distress can be alleviated.

The actual period of discomfort is bad enough, but the anticipation of it throughout the month can really alter the physical and emotional life of people burdened with this complaint.

Americans are dirty fatties

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Americans apparently are better fed than scrubbed. Over 95 per cent of all American homes in 1970 per cent of all American homes in 1970 boasted complete kitchens, including hot and cold running water, according to the Building Components Division of the Rockwell International Corp. here.

Only slightly more than 93 per cent, however, could claim a bathroom with hot and cold running water, a flush toilet and bathtub or shower, the producer of plumbing supplies said.

Rockwell also found that Americans were willing to pay a mighty price to keep their bathrooms and kitchens serviced with running water. Total annual cost of home improvements, maintenance and repair for plumbing is more than $1.4 billion.

Weariness hits Watergate probe

LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their eyelids droop and faces sag. Sometimes their tempers flare.

Early mornings and late nights, and 32 days of hearings over nine weeks have left their mark on the seven Watergate committee senators.

The senators and their staffs are plainly tired.

Three of them want to stop for a rest, but four want to continue working.

"When you see Chairman Ervin cock his elbow and poke Sam Dash in the ribs, he's not mad at him, he's just trying to keep him awake," one senator remarked of Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. and Samuel Dash, the chief counsel.

Since the Senate Watergate hearings opened last May 17 senators have examined 29 witnesses whose testimony is now spread over more than 6,500 pages of official transcript.

The committee staff has conducted more than 200 private interviews with witnesses and potential witnesses.

It has sifted through thousands of pages of records and documents and recordings, and spent scores of thousands of hours trying to get answers to the constant questions of who, what, where, how and why?

"It's really hard to describe how tired the staff is," said Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., who has been one of the main advocates of a month-long August recess.

"Everybody is snapping at everybody ... and its not a gauge of anything in my mind except how tired everybody is," said Baker.

Baker and two other senators contended the country needed a rest from Watergate as much as they did. They said it would be far better to take an August vacation and come back fresh in September.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and three other senators contended that no matter how tired people got, the hearings must go on without interruptions until the question of possible presidential involvement had been thoroughly explored.

The final vote to continue the hearing after Congress recesses Aug. 3 was taken in private and the names of who voted which way were not released.

"After we voted to go on after a four to three vote, everybody started snarling at each other," said Baker.

Cambodian war action heavier

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian troops launched a new drive southwest of Phnom Penh today in an attempt to relieve the pressure of insurgent forces on the city's southern defense perimeter.

U.S. B52 bombers hammered at insurgent positions seven miles south of Phnom Penh along the Prek Thnot river, while American F111s, Phantoms and Corsairs were in action on several sectors around the city. The thunder of U.S. bombs shook Phnom Penh continually.

The Cambodian command said government infantrymen and armored personnel carriers moved out west of the embattled village of Prateah Lang, nine miles southwest of the capital, in an "important attack."

Canton couple killed

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A Canton man, Arthur Davis, 79, and his 73-year-old wife, Audrey, were killed in a car accident at an intersection north of here Tuesday.

Old Fashioned Bargain Days in Washington C.H.

Weather Variable cloudiness and cooler tonight. Lows around 60. Clearing Thursday, highs in the 70s.

RECORD HERALD

Vol. 115 — No. 196 | 20 Pages | Washington Court House, Ohio | 15 Cents | Wednesday, August 1, 1973

Pet Show launches Bargain Days here

Despite the threat of rain there was a large turnout for the Bargain Days Pet Show Wednesday morning at the Courthouse.

The show was the first of a series of Bargain Days Week activities. Thursday's events include a bike parade, beginning at 10 a.m. in front of the junior high school, and a Farmers' Market on the Courthouse side of Main Street starting at noon.

Sidewalk sales will be featured Friday and Saturday, and an ice cream social, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, is set for 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Events Saturday include an antique car show, the AAUW Book Fair, the Carnegie Public Library book sale, employes' costume judging, and a beef barbecue beginning at 9:30 a.m.

A WIDE RANGE of pets appeared Wednesday, from a salamander to a racoon, with the majority being more usual pets.

There were five different classes of competition, typical boy and his pet, typical girl and her pet, most unusual pet, largest and smallest pets.

First place in the boy-and-pet class went to Jeff Mongold, 733 Campbell St. Second was Richard Linville, of Bethany Lane, and third was Sean Arthur, 109 River Rd.

Highest honors in the girl-and-pet competition were captured by Jamie Achor, 113 W. Circle Ave. Second was Brenda Annon, 1023 E. Elm St., and third was Angie Smith, 803 N. North St.

Jennie and Jerry Meyers, Rt. 1, Washington C. H. won the most unusual competition with their pet racoon. Mark Stackhouse, 515 W. Elm St., was second, entering his salamander, and Tim Welt, 705 S. North St., was third with his African frog.

A St. Bernard, belonging to Kenneth and Melissa Schwart, Rt. 1, Washington C. H., was the largest pet while some young fantailed fish, brought by Becky Annon, 1023 S. Elm St. were the smallest pets.

Haldeman continues Watergate testimony

Pressure on IRS 'possible'

WASHINGTON (AP) — H .R. Haldeman testified today he recalls no specific request to make the Internal Revenue Service more responsive politically, but conceded it was possible the White House was asked by others to approach the service.

"It's quite possible that was done," he said in beginning his third day as a witness before the Senate Watergate committee. "These would be inquiries that would come in from friends of the administration about foes of the administration."

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., announced at the start of the session that the panel will hear six more witnesses and then recess until after Labor Day. The witness scheduled to follow Haldeman is Richard Helms, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency and now ambassador to Iran.

Ervin took Haldeman again over the Sept. 15, 1972 meeting he and former counsel John W. Dean III had with the President. The senator pointed out that newspapers had printed extensive accounts of the Watergate break-in and the seven men who were indicted.

"All those facts had appeared in newspapers," Ervin asked. "Did you discuss any of those with the President?"

"I'm sure I did when they appeared," Haldeman said.

Q. Didn't that engender in your mind a reasonable suspicion that something was wrong in the Committee for the Re-election of the President?

A. It certainly did—the question was who was wrong and how high did it go.

Haldeman said Tuesday the absence of Justice Department evidence of Democratic plotting against Republicans last year supports his claim that the subject hasn't been investigated. The committee says it is exploring whether violent demonstrations were used as tactics against President Nixon.

Haldeman kept up his denials Tuesday that he or the President were involved in the Watergate wiretapping or coverup.

He said he believes if President Nixon ever supplies the committee with tape recordings of his White House conversations, the tapes will back up those denials.

"My opinion is that any reasonable person who listened to the tape as I did would come up with the same conclusion as he and I did," Haldeman said.

Under questioning by Republican counsel Fred Thompson, Haldeman took the offensive, reviewing a long list of acts he said were taken against the President, his family and his supporters during last year's presidential campaign.

Haldeman said these included violent demonstrations, heckling of Nixon and other speakers, burning of a campaign headquarters in Phoenix, Ariz.,

Impeachment of President asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move to impeach President Nixon has been introduced in the House because of the secret U.S. bombing in Cambodia, but the prospect of action on it appears remote.

The impeachment resolution by Rep. Robert F. Drinan, DMass., was greeted coolly by the Democratic leadership and the chairman of the committee to which it was assigned said no early action is planned.

Drinan himself told newsmen after he filed the measure Tuesday that he had decided against a procedure to force prompt consideration, believing members should have to consider the idea.

"A hearing on impeachment by the House of Representatives is the only possible way by which the questions of citizens of America can be answered and their confidence in government restored," he said.

This was the fourth time since Nixon took office that impeachment moves have been filed against him.

Drinan also said the House should consider what he called "impeachable offenses" committed by the President in connection with the Watergate scandal.

But Drinan, a Roman Catholic priest and frequent critic of Nixon's war policies, said it was not Watergate that prompted him to file the measure so much as "the recent revelation that President Nixon conducted a totally secret air war in Cambodia for 14 months prior to April 30, 1970."

Last year, during the controversy over bombing in Cambodia and the mining of Haiphong Harbor, three impeachment resolutions were introduced. They died without action.

Drinan's brief resolution "that Richard M. Nixon, President of the United States, is impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors" drew an immediate rebuke from Democratic House leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., also of Massachusetts.

O'Neill said in an interview that he had tried to dissuade Drinan from filing the resolution before either the Senate Watergate committee or special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox finished their probes.

O'Neill said he was concerned that Drinan was "known as a liberal anti-Nixon antagonist" and that "any early action could dissipate any future action."

Luncheon here Monday to honor Gov. Gilligan

A special luncheon will be held in honor of Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan who will be visiting Washington C. H. Monday.

Milbourne Barney, chairman of the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee, said the Governor's Luncheon will be held at noon in the Terrace Lounge.

Gov. Gilligan currently is visiting several counties and county fairs throughout the area and the luncheon was arranged by the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee in cooperation with the governor's office. Gov. Gilligan also will be visiting the Clinton County Fair in Wilmington Monday afternoon.

The luncheon appearance will mark the governor's first visit to Washington C. H. since being elected to Ohio's highest office and will be the first trip here since September of 1968 when he was campaigning for election to the U.S. Senate.

Tickets for the Governor's Luncheon are priced at $3 per person. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Hugh Rea (335-5683), Mrs. Robert Rodgers (335-5806) or any Democratic precinct committeeman.

Rupert Ruppert, an assistant press secretary, said Gov. Gilligan has not prepared any special topic for the luncheon.

Nixon calls Watergate affair murky, small, unimportant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edging closer to an open counterattack on his Watergate antagonists, President Nixon has lashed out at those who "spend their time dealing with the murky, small, unimportant, vicious little things."

As for himself, Nixon declared: "We ... will spend our time building a better world."

The President selected an unusual forum — his toast at a state dinner Tuesday night honoring Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka — for comments apparently aimed at his opponents in the continuing Watergate controversy.

According to sources, Nixon has been charting a counterattack directed at the Senate Watergate committee and special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox—an offensive reportedly scheduled for launching later in August.

Nixon's apparent reference to his Watergate antagonists came as he said both he and Tanaka seek peace and progress in the world.

"Let others spend their time dealing with the murky, small, unimportant, vicious little things," he said. "We have spent our time and will spend our time in building a better world."

A few moments later, Nixon returned again to the subject, saying the nation should use its material and intellectual resources to build that better world and "not let ourselves be remembered only for the petty, little, indecent things that seem to obcess us at a time when the world is going by."

Ulbricht dies

BERLIN (AP) — Walter Ulbricht, the spade-bearded East German Communist leader whose monument is the Berlin wall, died today, the official news agency ADN reported. He was 80.

Ulbricht had been ill since he was replaced as party first secretary by Erich Honecker in May 1971. He retained his post as chairman of the State Council, making him titular chief of state until his death. He remained a member of the party's Central Committee and Politburo.

ADN reported earlier that Ulbricht suffered a stroke July 19.

The ADN announcement of Ulbricht's death made no reference to his illness or to the cause of death.

Beef industry asks ceiling be lifted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Representatives of the beef industry took their complaints to Washington today, amid a rising chorus of protests about a beef shortage caused by the continuation of price ceilings.

Many wholesalers in the New York City area planned a one-day shutdown today because of a lack of supplies and consumers across the country sought ways of balancing the budget and feeding their families.

A spokesman for the American Meat Institute said representatives of producers and processors would meet in Washington at 2 p.m. EDT with Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz in an effort to get the ceilings on beef prices lifted.

Cost of Living Council officials repeatedly have said the ceiling will stay on until Sept. 12. The council also announced on Tuesday that it would probe the entire profit situation in the meat industry and officials expressed skepticism about reports that wholesalers and packers could not afford to continue operations.

Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant on consumer affairs, said in New York on Tuesday that food prices probably will stay at present levels.

"Prices will start stabilizing and leveling off, but the days of cheap food are over," she said.

Fred Fillinger of the Internal Revenue Service in Cleveland, Ohio, said he was investigating complaints from commercial meat buyers who said they had been offered beef at illegal, over-the-ceiling prices.

Dave Doherty, director of sales for A&P in New Orleans, said the situation was getting worse.

"We're only able to get about one-third of our requirement for beef and we're scrounging up fryers (chickens) from any place we can get them," he said. "Some of the stores are already running short and we're beginning to put other things in the meat counter—canned hams, sausage, orange juice."

Spiral in food prices tabulated

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Soaring egg prices helped push the family grocery bill still higher during the last week in July, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows. The increases came on top of sharp boosts that followed the lifting of controls on food prices earlier in the month.

The AP checked the prices of 15 food and non-food items in 13 cities on March 1 and has rechecked them at the beginning of each succeeding month. A special check was made July 23, several days after the announcement of Phase 4 and the end of controls on all foods except beef.

The marketbasket survey showed that between July 23 and July 31, the total grocery bill was up in 12 of the 13 cities checked. In all but one of those cities, the total also increased between July 1 and July 23.

Of the total number of items checked, 17 per cent increased in the last week of the month, 66 per cent were unchanged, 5 per cent were lower and 12 per cent were unavailable on one of the two check dates.

Eggs and pork chops led the list of more expensive items, reflecting higher prices at the farm.

Eggs increased in price in 11 of the 13 cities during the last week of July with the boosts ranging as high as 33 per cent.

The cost of a dozen grade A, medium white eggs had gone up in eight cities between July 1 and July 23 and the new increases pushed the price up even higher.

For example, the price of a dozen eggs in Seattle went from 58 to 66 cents between July 1 and July 23—an increase of 14 per cent. Then the price went to 85 on July 31—another increase of 29 per cent.

The story was similar with pork chops. Center cut pork chops were up in 11 of 13 cities checked between July 1 and July 23. They rose again in 7 of those 11 cities between July 23 and July 31 and increased in an eighth city where the price remained stable earlier.

The meat manager of a supermarket in Los Angeles— where pork chops went from $1.48 to $1.85 between July 1 and July 23—was selling them at $1.99 a pound on Tuesday.

The Agriculture Department reported on Monday that farmers received record prices in June for hogs, potatoes, eggs and corn and the increases will be reflected later at the supermarket since processors and retailers are allowed, under Phase 4, to pass on boosts in the cost of raw agricultural products.

Because beef remains under a ceiling until Sept. 12, the prices of chopped chuck and all-beef hot dogs stayed steady.

The cities checked for the AP survey were: Albuquerque, N.M.; Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and Seattle.

The marketbasket bill went up everywhere but Atlanta with increases ranging from a fraction of a per cent in New York and Salt Lake City to 5 per cent in Seattle. The bill had gone up in all cities except Miami in the period between July 1 and July 23.

Probe of tragic Delta crash under way

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — "People were scattered all over the ground. There was no sound. They were all dead," nurse Maureen Kennedy said in describing the scene of a jetliner crash in which 88 persons died.

"There was nothing humanly possible to be done for those people. I never felt so helpless in all my life. I never felt so inadequate," she said after returning from the burned wreckage of a Delta Airlines DC9 that lay on a foggy runway at Logan International Airport.

One person survived Tuesday morning's crash, the worst ever at Boston. Air Force Sgt. Leopold Chouinard, 20, of Marshfield, Vt., was hospitalized in critical condition with burns over most of his body.

Delta Flight 723 sliced through a 2½-foot-high seawall and disintegrated while attempting a landing at the airport.

Federal Aviation Administration officials would only say that the pilot, Capt. John N. Striel Jr., was flying the jetliner 230 feet too low and 3,500 feet short of the usual touchdown point. An 11-man team from the National Transportation Safety Board today began trying to find out why.

Among the victims were Chester Wiggin Jr., a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Robert W. Moran, an assistant New Hampshire attorney general.

William C. Keepers, the airport's chief traffic controller, said "there was no word of trouble" in routine talk with the jetliner at 11:08 a.m.

"He (the pilot) was issued clearance to land, given runway visual range of 6,000 feet and acknowledged the transmission," Keepers said. "That was the last contact."

A minute later, the twin-engine plane clipped the wall, flipped over and broke apart. Its wreckage was sprawled across a gravel strip next to Boston's harbor and the 10,000-foot runway beyond.

The airport had been shut down once Tuesday morning because of bad weather but had been reopened. Witnesses said a fog bank was sweeping across the runways as the jet made its final approach.

The plane had left Burlington, Vt., at 9:12 a.m., 12 minutes behind schedule. It made an unscheduled stop at Manchester, N.H., to pick up passengers stranded there when a flight to New York was cancelled because of fog.

As the plane taxied away from Manchester, the pilot announced that the flight would be 45 minute late.

Charles R. Mealy of Bedford, N.H., realized that he couldn't make a business appointment on time and asked to be let off. The pilot turned the plane around and said that anyone who wished could get off.

Mealy was the only one.

The worst previous crash in Boston occurred Oct. 4, 1960, when an Eastern Air Lines plane crashed in the harbor after takeoff, killing 62 persons.

Tuesday's crash was Delta's first fatal crash in 20 years, an airline spokesman said.

FBI agents in closet near trial

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The judge in the Gainesville eight conspiracy trial has ruled that the discovery of two FBI agents with electronic eavesdropping equipment in a room next to the defense attorneys' headquarters "has nothing to do with the case."

But attorneys said they will refile a motion for a full hearing on the incident when trial of the eight antiwar activists resumes today before U.S. District Court Judge Winston E. Arnow.

Seven members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War and one sympathizer are accused of plotting violence during the 1972 Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

U.S. marshals said Tuesday they found the FBI agents in a broom closet in the courthouse building with their electronic equipment plugged in to telephone switch boxes. Defense attorneys were huddled in conference nearby.

The marshals said the agents carried a suitcase filled with two amplifiers, a battery, a transmitter and receiver, a blow torch, earphones, a small radio and assorted tools and phone jacks.

Dollar slumps

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar slumped again today on European foreign exchanges and some dealers blamed the impeachment motion against President Nixon.

The dollar moved down in London, Frankfurt and Paris but improved slightly in Tokyo. The big Zurich market was closed for a Swiss national holiday.

Fund impoundment for housing voided

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that the Nixon administration "ignored the stated goal of Congress" by halting approval of low-interest housing loans for poor rural Americans.

Tuesday's decision was the second time in eight days that U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey had ordered the government to release impounded housing subsidy funds.

The government has appealed Richey's earlier order to restore a much larger subsidy program administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Tuesday's order was directed to the Farmers Home Administration, which suspended the program for 18 months in January.

Last year, $900 million worth of interest payments were made under the program.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas G. Corcoran Jr., who argued the case for the government, said the decision probably would be appealed.

The government contended the FHA had the right to suspend the payments because, unlike the ones made by HUD, they do not come from a fund specifically appropriated for the purpose by Congress.

Richey, however, said government officials violated the constitution and "placed a bloackade in the road to decent housing for all."

The interest subsidy program was enacted in 1968, at the same time Congress set forth housing goals including six million housing units for low and moderate income families.

The decision was at least the eighth in recent weeks denying the constitutionality of President Nixon's withholding of funds approved by Congress.

Since the subsidy program was suspended, bills have been introduced in Congress to direct the administration to make payments of from $500 million to $1.2 billion a year under it.

Nixon has said he will withhold funds when necessary to fight inflation. Estimates of the amount he has impounded range from $8.7 billion to $18 billion.

Prisoner slain at Oklahoma pen

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — One inmate was stabbed to death and another was severely beaten Tuesday night as violence broke out anew in the riot-torn Oklahoma State Penitentiary, officials said today.

The death brought the official toll to three since the outbreak of rioting and burning last Friday which destroyed much of the prison's interior. National Guard troops have been searching the rubble, checking rumors that more inmates died.

Officials said today they are in control of the situation at the prison. But trouble has flared every day since the rioting was brought to end on Sunday.

Ed Hardy, Gov. David Hall's press secretary, said the inmate who was killed Tuesday night has been identified, but the name was not immediately released. Hardy said the assailant is known to officials but "it's too dangerous to go in and try to get him."

The latest round of trouble began Tuesday when more than 700 inmates, including the ones who led the weekend rebellion, were taken from cell blocks to a mobile kitchen for their first hot meal since the rioting began.

Authorities said the men refused the meal of meatloaf and green beans, moved to within a few feet of National Guardsmen and state troopers and shouted, "We want steak."

The National Guardsmen, with bayonets fixed on their rifles, drove the inmates into one pocket of the prison.

A second attempt to feed the unruly convicts four hours later was met with the same defiance.

Prison officials had said all the inmates had been shaken down for weapons and drugs. A head count was being made, and Hardy said today that only about 1,660 of the 1,706 convicts who were in the prison when the rioting started had been accounted for.

Hardy said, however, it was believed the remainder were hiding in various outbuildings and eventually would be found.

After the inmates refused their meal, Cell Block F, where the men had been housed, was ripped apart, officials said.

The cells had been repaired after the weekend violence, but state Safety Commissior Wayne Lawson said, "The cells look worse now than they did after the convicts first tore them up during the weekend."

Farm bill has chance of survival

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress could send President Nixon a major farm bill by the end of this week if backers of a Senate-passed compromise can outmaneuver House forces who want to ban food stamps for most strikers.

The Senate voted 85 to 7 Tuesday night for a Senate-House conference committee's four-year compromise version of the farm, food stamp and food-for-peace bill. The vote came after Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz switched signals and said he would urge Nixon to sign it.

Sen. Jesse A. Helms, R-N.C., was beaten 58 to 34 in his bid to have the Senate insert Housepassed language that would ban distribution of food stamps to most strikers. Senate-House conferees had broken up in disagreement earlier Tuesday over what to do about this provision.

The bill would set up a new cotton and grain crop support system and lower the annual subsidy ceiling to $20,000 per farmer.

It also would hike minimum milk price supports, make the agriculture secretary a virtual food-price czar, ban U.S. food-for-peace aid to North Vietnam unless approved by Congress, repeal a so-called bread tax and revamp food stamp programs.

Farm-state senators from both parties advised their colleagues that Butz, who had been threatening to call for a veto unless conferees accepted his terms on major disputes over crop and milk supports, suddenly changed his mind and agreed to support the compromise. The conferees had gone only half way toward meeting the objections originally voiced by Butz.

Haldeman said there has been no investigation of these events and little publicity. He said he has supplied the committee with documented evidence that some of them took place with the knowledge and consent of agents of last year's Democratic presidential nominee Sen. George McGovern. He said others were planned by persons who supported McGovern but didn't take orders from him.

Committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., scoffed at Haldeman's accusations.

"From your description I just got an idea that the country must have been in a state of insurrection during the last election," Ervin said.

Scattered showers were expected to diminish from the west across Ohio late today and tonight as a weak cold front passed eastward beyond the state.

Cloudy skies today were expected to limit temperatures to the 70s. Readings tonight will drop to the low 60s or upper 50s.

Slow clearing is forecast from the west Thursday as a high pressure system now in the Plains moves slowly eastward. Afternoon temperatures Thursday should reach 75 or 80 degrees.

There were scattered showers over all of Ohio Tuesday. Rainfall totals for the month reached near normal amounts for most portions of the state, while some spots had excess rain.

Looking ahead for the remainder of the week, fair weather is scheduled, with temperatures averaging a little below normal for early August.

Fair, mild weather is expected in Ohio Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Highs Friday will be in the mid 70s and low 80s, warming to the 80s by Sunday. Lows will be in the mid 50s to the mid 60s.

Chamber panel checking out M.D. prospects

Seven prospects for new doctor's in Washington C.H. are being checked out by the Physicians Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, according to Larry Lehman, committee chairman.

Lehman said the prospects will be contacted by phone. Those expressing an interest in locating here will be sent brochures describing Washington C.H., followed by personal contact.

The committee is working with the hospital and its medical staff in obtaining the names of prospects and screening lists of doctors supplied by the American Medical Association.

Cambodian aid flow is doubled

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Aug. 15 cutoff date for American bombing in Cambodia approaches, Pentagon sources say the United States is doubling the rate at which military aid is shipped to the government in Phnom Penh.

"We want to give those guys every chance we can," said one qualified source.

Since Jan. 1, 1973, the United States has shipped to Cambodia 21 T28s, four C47 cargo planes, 21 river patrol boats, 30 armored personnel carriers, eight 155-millimeter howitzers, and a large number of mortars, smaller artillery guns, trucks, communications equipment, ammunition and small arms.

Pentagon officials say the only reason more sophisticated weaponry is not going to Phnom Penh is that Cambodian military forces are not sufficiently trained to use them.

Congress has approved legislation ordering President Nixon to halt all military activity in Indochina by Aug. 15. Until then B52 bombers and tactical fighter bombers like the F111 are expected to continue to hit concentrations of North Vietnamese Communists and Cambodian rebels.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger has said it is doubtful whether the Phnom Penh government can survive without American air power. There have been reports that the Americans are considering persuading the South Vietnamese to send some troops and planes to help out their Cambodian neighbors.

House cuts weapons bill $950 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has slashed a $21.4 billion weapons bill $950 million across the board but rejected all efforts to reduce U.S. forces in Europe and around the world.

A coalition of House economy bloc members and military spending critics won approval of the near $1 billion cut by a vote of 242 to 163.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., the outspoken military spending critic who proposed the cut, and conservative economy advocate Rep. John H. Rousselot, R-Calif., joined in arguing that defense will have to take cuts like everything else to meet the $271 billion spending limit voted by the House last week.

The House passed the $20.5 billion weapons bill 367 to 37 and sent it to the Senate.

Opinion And Comment

Turning point for the FBI

By almost all accounts, Clarence M. Kelley is a good man for the job of directing the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He was indeed depicted at hearings as being only lukewarm on civil rights, but a Senator not insensitive to the matter found the charges unconvincing and unanimously approved the nomination.

Kelley's immediate task will be to set about restoring the FBI to its position of trust and respect. He has already begun this process by saying that he would quit rather than permit the FBI to be used for political purposes. It has been so used, and that is at the root of its present troubles.

Congress also has a role to play. At this historic juncture, it should firmly assert its right to keep the FBI under review henceforth. Nothing less than this will suffice to assure the agency's unswerving responsiveness to the public interest and to that interest alone.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Energy industries help each other

When the American Petroleum Institute hired Joe Moody, retired head of the National Coal Policy Committee, as a counselor, the action was symbolic: it signified that the era of bickering and bad blood between different types of energy producers had come to an end.

With the sudden shortage of all kinds of fuel, the realization is finally dawning that there is going to be room for everybody in an energy seller's market that will surely outlast the century.

Who would have believed ten years ago that the oil companies would actually be praying for a turn of fate that would re-establish coal as a usable fuel for the electrical utilities? Yet that is precisely their state of mind; they would like to have more oil available for the business of keeping our automobiles running, which won't be possible until the utilities can find a way of using coal in a form that won't pollute our city air.

Both coal and oil will rejoice if the big General Electric Co. succeeds in working out its deal with Lurgi, the West German supplies of coal gasification equipment. The Lurgi gasifier changes coal into a clean gas which, if it can be made economical, would be a satisfactory substitute for oil as a utility fuel.

What GE wants to do is to use the Lurgi gasifier as part of a so-called combined-cycle system to supply gas for 30,000 HP gas turbines. The first turbine will be ready by 1975, and GE hopes to see a complete plant in operation by 1977.

GE SAYS it has every reason to believe that it can produce a highly efficient gasifier and big turbine system that will be both economic and clean. If it can do this, it would lift our Appalachian highlands out of the depression that has bedeviled them ever since the environmentalists cracked down on the use of coal for generating electrical power.

The harmony developing between the various fuel supply industries isn't complete, for the United Mine Workers Journal still takes an anachronistic poke on occasion at nuclear energy. But the gas industry is offering its own prayer that underground atomic explosions will succeed in unlocking immense reservoirs of natural gas.

A recent nuclear explosion in Colorado, set off at some 6,000 feet below ground, has proved that deep detonations do not hurt the surface or poison the atmosphere. The gas industry is still waiting to see how much gas will seep into the hole made by the nuclear explosion, but it has hopes that it has found the key to exploitation of a huge new natural gas source.

If "nuclear-tickled" gas offers anything, it will lessen the balance-of-payments problems that will be staggering enough when we begin paying the Arabs up to $30 billion a year for oil. The so-called cryogenic tanker will begin to deliver liquefied natural gas from Algeria to the East Coast of the U.S. in 1976, and by 1980, the importation of LNG should reach two trillion cubic feet a year, or 9 per cent of our present production. The cost of LNG, as delivered to the East Coast, will be three times what is currently charged for domestically produced gas.

WE HAVE ALREADY started to build cryogenic tankers in American shipyards, but there are only a limited number of harbors on our East and Gulf coasts that can accommodate the deep draft ships that would bring importation costs down. So there is every reason for the gas industry to pray that its underground "assist" from the nuclear energy industry will prove successful.

In any event, our energy producers are in a good frame of mind. They are moving ahead on all fronts to achieve break-throughs that will end the ridiculous state of affairs produced by the more fanatical environmentalists who wouldn't be satisfied with trade-offs between energy and cleanliness for an interim period.

And they are moving without any feeling that they must try to monopolize segments of the market for themselves.

Religious zeal marks Libyan chief

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associated Press Writer

BENGHAZI, Libya (AP) — The teachings of Islam and the revolutionary experience of Gamal Abdel Nasser are the two lodestars that guide Col. Moammar Khadafy's course as leader of Libya.

Behind many of his apparently eccentric actions since he took over the country in 1969 is an unshakeable belief that the tenets of the Moslem religion provide an answer to all the modern world's ills.

Khadafy looks for inspiration to what he considers the purest form of Islam—the fundamental words of God contained in the Koran, the Moslem holy book.

"If you people want a solution to all your problems, your sins and your human weakness, why don't you follow this book?" he asked in a recent lecture. "Why don't you resort to God in order to get salvation at the hands of the Creator instead of seeking it from your fellow creatures?"

With this religious zeal is a respect for the late Egyptian president that borders on adoration. When Nasser was at his most powerful in the late 1950s, Khadafy was a budding revolutionary absorbing every word.

Khadafy's political approach and many of his actions are based on Nasser's role as an Arab leader. He does not bother to conceal even from his Egyptian allies that he considers himself to be Nasser's spiritual heir, destined to unify the Arab world.

Khadafy has enlisted some formidable personal and national assets in the service of the cause.

At 31, he is ruggedly handsome; he is an indefatigable worker, constantly on the move within his country and in the Arab world. Everyone agrees that, whatever his other faults, he is personally incorruptible.

This is all the more remarkable because he has virtually unhindered control of Libya's huge oil income, now running to about $2 billion a year.

Out of this, Khadafy reportedly has supported U.S. black militants, sent arms to Irish and Filipino rebels and given money to Gen. Idi Amin of Uganda.

All his foreign activism is designed to enhance the Arab position versus Israel, Khadafy said in a recent speech.

"Israel's strength in the confrontation begins in the United States," Khadafy said. "When Libya supports black Americans and opens a new front, it is really defending Egypt against Israel."

He is less adventurous in using oil as a political weapon against the United States.

"Cutting off Arab oil is not the important thing," said one source familiar with Khadafy's thinking. "Let the fighting begin on the fronts, and we will cut off oil, but not before."

So far as the Libyan people are concerned, Khadafy stands above the 10 other young officers in the nation's revolutionary Command Council, the regime's ruling authority.

The recent crisis over Khadafy's resignation culminated in a mass rally marked by a near-hysterical outpouring of emotion from the crowd.

He finally agreed to rescind the resignation, after giving the crowd a four-hour speech— sometimes bordering on a stern lecture—explaining the reasons for his 12-day stepdown.

Khadafy said he personally had a number of conditions that should be fulfilled before his projected union of Egypt and Libya could go through. Since the Egyptians were obdurately rejecting the conditions, he said, he was stepping aside so as not to become an obstacle to union.

This simplistic explanation may have satisfied the crowd but not many long-time observers of the Libyan scene.

"The whole affair looked very much like a carefully planned maneuver to get himself off the hook because the Egyptians were resisting his cherished union," said one source.

Observers noted the similarity to Nasser's brief resignation after Egypt's defeat by Israel in 1967. Millions of Egyptians took to the streets begging Nasser to stay on, and he continued in power with more support than ever until his death in 1970.

Last April, Khadafy launched a "cultural revolution" in which "people's committees" in every state and private enterprise fired hundreds of bureaucrats and executives whom they considered corrupt. In addition, Khadafy arrested hundreds of "enemies of the revolution"—mostly Communists and members of the Moslem Brotherhood Organization.

"The cultural revolution will probably go on for another two years or so," said a high-level Libyan official. "Then those it placed in positions of command will operate for perhaps another two years. After that it may be time for new purging."

"YOU'RE GOING TO GET A LOT OF PEOPLE IN TROUBLE SOMEDAY."

Hal Boyle . . . Hal's back in the mailbag

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If a child's fingernails are cut before his first birthday, he will grow up a thief, according to an old belief in rural England. To prevent this, some parents there still bite the nails of infants.

Does the man in the moon seem farther away from you now than when you were very young? Well, he has moved off a bit. Every 30 years, astronomers figure, the moon's orbit around the earth moves one foot farther out in space.

Friends and relatives who live 50 or more miles apart don't visit or write each other as often as they did 10 years ago, but they do keep in closer touch by phone. The number of people who telephoned out-of-town relatives and friends rose from 59 to 63 per cent between 1962 and 1972, but personal visits dropped from 70 per cent to 58 per cent. A survey by the Bell System also found that, in the last decade, the number of people who make more than a dozen long distance calls a year rose from six to 11 per cent.

If you're sailing for Europe this winter, keep your eyes peeled for icebergs. The American Geographic Society expects between 600 and 700 will be sighted near shipping lanes, nearly twice the yearly average of 365. There were 1,012 sighted in 1912, the year the Titanic sank. After breaking off from their glacier bases, the bergs take three years to reach shipping zones. The average berg then weighs about 150,000 tons, about one-tenth its original weight.

Quotable Notables: "For a man to pretend to understand women is bad manners; for him to really understand them is bad morals." — Henry James.

Forgotten heroes: Without taking a drink, Akim Akintola, 24, of Nigeria, ate 30 packages of potato chips in 29 minutes, 50 seconds, in Manchester, England, on Feb. 28, 1965.

Worth remembering: "Money won't buy love, but it'll sure put a guy in a mighty good bargaining position."

It was Arthur "Bugs" Baer who observed, "A good neighbor is a fellow who smiles at you over the back fence but doesn't climb over it."

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Would-be female bus driver fears her past

DEAR ABBY: A woman who is about to make application for a job driving a school bus is worried about her past catching up with her.

She got a dishonorable discharge from the service 17 years ago, and is afraid that when her application for this job is received, they will start a thorough investigation of her past, which will include her service record, and everything will come out.

She has no criminal record of any kind, but she understands she has to have FBI security clearance for this bus driving job. The only flaw in her record is this dishonorable discharge which, I may as well tell you, came about when she and another girl were discovered having a romantic relationship. It was only a passing fancy, or an experimental thing, you might say, and never occurred again. She is now married, has a family, and is living a normal life.

Must she be branded all her life for this single incident?

ANXIOUS TO HEAR

DEAR ANXIOUS: Driving a school bus does not require FBI clearance. Furthermore, the response from the Army to an inquiry about this person would be: "Dishonorable discharge-unsuitable for military life." (Unless national security is involved, nothing else would be divulged.)

DEAR ABBY: Last November I became engaged. I was so excited at the time that I asked a girl I work with (I'll call her "Mazie") to be one of my bridesmaids. I had seen Mazie only at work, never outside the office.

Now that I know her better, I am very sorry I asked her to be a bridesmaid. She gets drunk and talks dirty. She is very loud and extremely pushy where men are concerned.

Worse yet, my fiance can't stand her. He's afraid she will ruin our wedding with her drinking and dirty mouth.

To give you an idea of what kind of girl Mazie is, she keeps telling me she hopes the bridemaid's gown will be plenty sexy so she can show off her "38s."

How can I get rid of her politely? Or am I stuck with her?

SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: There is no way you can get rid of her "politely," which means either you are stuck with her, or you will have to get rid of her impolitely.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the young couple who couldn't find a church and minister for their post-pregnant wedding:

You should do a service to others in such straits by informing them of Unitarian-Universalist churches and ministers. They value individuals for honesty and candor; one need not "belong" to a Unitarian-Universalist church to use the building. Witness the many Unitarian-Universalist churches that serve as forums, or centers for unusual music, art debate, or whatever in the search for truth and for meaningful living.

If the couple are straightforward, and respect their prior scheduled commitments of the origanization, I am sure they will find a sanctuary in a Unitarian-Universalist church, and a friend in the minister there.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, AUG. 16

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Stimulating Mars influences now heighten your ambitions and energies, but don't overtax yourself. Delegate some work to associates.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Tact and diplomacy needed on all fronts now. Some associates will be "edgy," difficult to please, unwilling to cooperate.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Mercury restrictions lift. A favorable report now gives you the "green light" to go ahead with important plans, decisions.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

A good day for dealing with superiors, with persons in authority generally. Any or all should be receptive to your ideas.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Your innate self-will and "bossiness" could be liabilities now. Many are oversensitive; will resent interference of any kind.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A more or less routine day, but some slightly unconventional and off-beat activities during the evening hours could be fun.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your Venus continues to encourage artistic endeavors. A unique creative job should work out exceptionally well.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

If you've had difficulty in launching a pet project because of opposition, you'll get a chance to prove a significant point shortly after noon.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Stimulating influences. An unexpected happening in the forenoon could lead to an unplanned — and profitable — trip.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Care needed in matters of communication. Misinterpretation of a letter or a message could lead to errors or misunderstandings.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Personal relationships under excellent influences. A good day for benefitting through friends and close associates.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Caution urged in financial matters. Pay no heed to reckless friends who urge you to spend foolishly.

YOU BORN TODAY are a vibrant and interesting individual, endowed with excellent gifts of leadership and organizational ability. Idealistic, enthusiastic and remarkably intuitive, you have the capacity to make friends in all walks of life — and keep them. You are versatile, too, and the fields in which you could succeed are almost limitless, but you could make your most outstanding mark in either the worlds of science or music. You have a strong sense of justice, and could make an estimable success of the law; could also excel in painting or photography. If business attracts you, the world of finance would be your best bet.

PEDAL PALS 4-H

The Pedal Pals 4-H Club held a meeting in the home of Bernie and Mary Lutz. Charlene Williamson brought her little niece, Holly, who was here visiting from Florida. Mrs. Allen Tracy's mother, also came to the meeting.

President Bernie Lutz gave out ESA bike rider kits so members will be in the bike ride to raise money for St. Jude's Hospital. We then practiced pedaling and braking our bikes. We learned not to slide our tires when we stop. Jay Smith brought refreshments of chocolate chip cookies and Kool-Aid.

Ohio Perspective

Eastern Ohio has own dude farm

By HENRY HEILBRUNN
Associated Press Writer

QUAKER CITY, Ohio (AP) — Richard and Mabell Starr, who run a dude farm near this eastern Ohio town, have solved the problem of world travel.

They let the world come to them.

"If we can't go to see the world, we'll let the world come here," said Mrs. Starr.

The 200-acre Starr layout, one of 20 such farms signed up as members of the state Farm and Rural Vacation Association, is one way of keeping Ohioans down on the farm.

The Department of Economic and Community Development promotes these rural vacations to keep Ohio dollars at home.

They're not fancy vacations, being big on clean air and an occasional horseback jaunt over the back 40 acres, but they are also big on rest.

"It's relaxing," said Hester Sensel of Cincinnati, one of the Starrs' guests. "We had never been here or met anyone before we came. You do what you want.

"I have not cooking unless I want to help out. There are 200 acres to roam around on. You just thoroughly enjoy yourself."

The Sensels have been visiting the Starr dude farm for five summers.

"We have people of all ages and from every walk of life the truck driver to the highest executive," said Mrs. Starr, who has spent all of her 57 years on Rural Route 1, Quaker City.

The Starrs entertain around 375 persons around the year with home cooking, fireside chats and wiener roasts. They raise 50 head of beef cattle and 50 head of sheep. They grow grass and hay, and keep some chickens, ducks and riding horses around for the visitors.

"We have found it quite profitable," Mrs. Starr said. "It's a two-way exchange. While our guests are learning about the farm, we're learning about their way of life.

"We have had a number of guests from out of state and out of the country. A couple of years ago we had guests from France, Malaysia, Pakistan and Germany. They really take to it.

"In all the time they had been here, the people from France had not had the opportunity to communicate with American people as they did here.

"We just operate like one big family. They really got to know about America and family living."

The Starr farm charges $65 per person over 10 for one week's stay, and $40 for children under 10.

Miss Depugh, Mr. Barton exchange vows

Rev. Robert McNeely performed the double-ring ceremony which united in marriage Miss Karen Lynn Depugh and Michael Dean Barton. The ceremony took place in the Church of the Nazarene in Mount Sterling.

Two seven-branch candelabra and four circular candelabra with palms completed the setting. The pews were marked with single candelabra, greenery and bows. Mike and David Depugh lighted the candles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Depugh, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Barton of London are parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Kathy Woodfork, vocalist, and Miss Twila Taylor, organist, presented a half-hour prelude of music preceding the wedding ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of crepe cream puff, with Chantilly lace extending down the front of the gown and 50 satin-covered buttons. The long Bishop sleeves also ended in buttoned fitted cuffs. The long flowing train was caught at the back. Her mantilla of silk illusion was edged in matching lace. The bride's only jewelry was an opal necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried an arrangement of deep purple statis, stephanotis, pink sweetheart roses, daisies, pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Jo Lynn LeBeau was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Gary Rohrer (Sharon Lilly), Debbie Krupla and Becky Johnson. Kathy Depugh was the junior bridesmaid.

Miss LeBeau wore a lavender chiffon floral formal length gown with empire waist. A large lavender bow was at the back. She wore a matching picture hat. The bridesmaids wore matching gowns except in pale pink and matching picture hats. The gowns were made by Mrs. Gary Depugh. They carried hurricane lamps with daisies, carnations and baby's breath in pink and lavender.

Cheryl Depugh, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She was dressed like the attendants and carried a basket of spring flowers.

Gary Summers of London served as best man for his cousin. Seating the wedding guests were Gary Rohrer of New Holland, senior usher, Roger McCoy of Washington C. H., Robert Langley and Dave Kelly, both of Bloomingburg. Craig Depugh, nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of melon double knit with long sleeves with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a full length gown of pale yellow and green chiffon with yellow accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of melon carnations and red rosebuds.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL D. BARTON

Hostesses for the reception which followed in Fellowship Hall were Mrs. Irene Knox and Mrs. Roger Gordin, aunts of the bride, Miss Louann LeBeau, Mrs. Bud Houser, Mrs. Doug Templin, Miss Kathy Smith, Mrs. Robert Blessing, Mrs. Martha Yinger and Mrs. Donna Belle Crawford. Junior hostesses were Terri and Cindy Depugh.

The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a bridal couple. The cake was made by Mrs. Gary Depugh. The gift table was decorated in pink and lavender, with a bowl of spring flowers in the center. Miss Louann LeBeau presided at the guest book.

Following a trip to Aurora, the couple is residing at Rt. 2, O'Day-Harrison Rd., near Mount Sterling.

Both are graduates of Miami Trace High School. The groom is engaged in farming.

During the brief business meeting, Mrs. Florence Bethards was in charge of devotions, when a beautiful Memorial was made to the late Mrs. Ethel Stevenson, a former member of the club. Mrs. Frances Toops conducted the meeting and led the salute to the American and Christian flags. Mrs. Edith Scott and Mrs. Olive Brookover presented appropriate poems for the occasion.

Mrs. Zoe Follis will be the Aug. 21 hostess.

BROILED TOMATOES

They look as good as they taste!

4 medium tomatoes
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup grated (medium fine) Swiss cheese, lightly packed
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Rinse tomatoes; cut away stem ends; cut each tomato in half crosswise. Cut a thin slice from bottom of any of the tomato halves that do not stand straight. Mix mayonnaise, cheese and paprika; spread over top cut surface of tomatoes. Place in a shallow pan — foil-lined if you like. Broil 4 or 5 inches from high heat until tomatoes are warm through and topping is browned — 4 or 5 minutes; watch so as not to scorch. Makes 4 servings.

Theater ballet to perform in Wilmington

With the help from a matching funds grant-in-aid from the Ohio Arts Council, the Columbus Theater Ballet Association will bring its ballet company to Wilmington College for a week of intensive work starting on Aug. 5th. The week will culminate on August 10 with a performance in Boyd Auditorium in which will be presented pieces from the repertory of the Company.

Originally incorporated nine years ago as the Christopher Ballet Company, the organization changed its name recently to reflect the development which it has undergone while fulfilling its goals of promoting, fostering, maintaining and supporting ballet as an art form.

Wilmington College was chosen as an appropriate site to bring the company together for intensive work in preparation for the 1973-74 season because it offers lodging, rehearsal rooms and auditorium in a single spot. The auditorium makes is possible to offer a performance to the Clinton County audience in line both with the goals of the Company itself and of the Ohio Arts Council, which is charged with the support and dissemination of the arts throughout the entire state.

The happy and unplanned coincidence of the Summer Arts Festival at the College and the residence of the Columbus Theater Ballet with its performance gives to the audience the opportunity to enjoy an additioal art form.

"THE STORE WITH THE ORANGE FRONT"

'Tecumseh' production outlined for Rotarians

Members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club heard a "segment of Ohio history brought to life" at their luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Washington Country Club as the historical drama "Tecumseh!" was outlined.

W.L. Mundell, producer of the drama who formerly was associated with the Ohio University branch at Chillicothe, reviewed with Rotarians the background of the drama's creation and information concerning the construction of the large amphitheatre at Sugarloaf Mountain, near Chillicothe.

Mundell, who had a color slide presentation, pointed out that the amphitheatre is located near the site where the Great Seal of Ohio was conceived.

The play "Tecumseh!" is primarily the life story of an Indian chief who wanted to combine all the Indian tribes in the United States to "fight the white man" while he was involved in the War of 1812, according to Mundell. The drama, he pointed out, recreates "a pivotal period in our history, and is a segment of Ohio history brought to life."

THE PRODUCER explained that construction started early in 1972 on the amphitheatre which has a total of eight stages, including a "water stage" with 70,000 gallons of water.

All utilities, such as sewage disposal and electric, were constructed underground to protect the environment of the area.

Mundell said the promoters received a tremendous amount of cooperation as $250,000 was raised in donations from Chillicothe area residents, and the drama also received state and federal grants. He said $1.5 million was eventually spent for the program.

In citing the cooperation further, Mundell pointed out that an Ohio National Guard unit from Chillicothe constructed parking lots and access roads and that the water stage was filled by fire department tankers.

A TOTAL of 138 persons are involved in the production, 97 of them being actors and actresses. The featured actors and directors have television and movie credits.

The drama is staged nightly, except Monday, and will run through Sept. 2.

Mundell pointed out that 1,100 persons attended last Saturday night's showing.

Mundell was introduced by Wilson Moon, of Greenfield. Carl Elberfeld was the program chairman.

AT THE business meeting, conducted by Vice President Paul Crosby, two new members were accepted. They were the Rev. Mark Dove, new pastor at the Grace United Methodist Church, who was sponsored by Phil Grover and introduced by Eli Craig, and Dr. Leroy Davis, new rector at St. Andrews Episcopal Church. Dr. Davis was sponsored by Jack Alkire.

Rollo M. Marchant announced Tuesday that a boy from Bolivia will be the Rotary exchange student for the 1973-74 school year. The boy will be a junior at Washington Senior High School and his first hosts will be the Dr. George Pommert family, 203 River Rd.

Guests were Harold Riffle, of Chillicothe, executive vice president of the Ross-Highland Auto Club which is active in the "Tecumseh!" production; John Bottom with William Williams, David Woodmansee with his father, Dr. Robert Woodmansee, and Paul Rodenfels with L.M. (Pete) Hays.

Raymund Bischoff, of Johannesburg, South Africa, an AFS student in Washington C.H. during the 1962-63 school year, was a guest of Rodenfels.

Visiting Rotarians were Darrell French, of Wilmington, Wilson Moon, of Greenfield, and George Gerhardt, of Mount Sterling.

Amtrak hearing slated on National Limited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission will hold a public hearing in Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 14 to discuss Amtrak's proposed discontinuance of the National Limited passenger train, which runs between New York and Kansas City.

Amtrak announced last month it planned to discontinue that train and the Floridian—a line between Chicago and Miami—but the ICC later ordered the corporation to continue running the trains for four more months.

The Columbus hearing is one of 21 planned by the ICC in cities served by the trains.

NEW YORK (AP) — Had a quiet, intimate lunch the other day with some 15 scriveners, a pride of CBS News executives, Hughes Rudd of Waco, Tex., and Sally Quinn of Savannah, Ga., and Washington, D.C.

The gathering occurred at an exclusive restaurant, the kind of place where, if you pop a button, a waiter immediately hurls a tablecloth on it and seats a party of four.

The idea of the lunch, aside from free eats, was to let the scriveners talk with Rudd and Miss Quinn, who on Monday take over as the coanchors on the revised and revamped "CBS Morning News" show.

Rudd, 52, seemed more at ease and mildly amused at the goings-on. Miss Quinn, 32, appeared slightly tired and worried that someone would ask again what she felt about a New York magazine article.

Said article was about her. It suggested she was a blonde bombshell and alleged she is one of those chic, inner-circle Washington journalists who thrive on the outrageous.

The article was read by practically everybody who is anybody in New York and Washington, which may have driven down the magazine's circulation that week. Miss Quinn, meanwhile, got mad at the author.

Rudd hasn't been embroiled in such matters. He's been a wandering newspaperman most of his adult life, save for World War II service as an Army artillery spotter pilot in North Africa and Europe.

A 14-year veteran of CBS News duty in such places as Berlin, Moscow and Vietnam, he still seems more Waco than world-traveler. He just needs a chaw of Day's Work and a toothpick to complete the image.

He wandered from table to table at the luncheon, amiably damning the feebleness of Manhattan chili and praising the gusto of the "Five Alarm Chili" sold by the late Wick Fowler, a Texas newspaperman.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

The field editor of a well-known New York subsidy publishing firm will be in Chillicothe in September. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books. etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. Please mention your phone number. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

Kroger accord said reached with union

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A tentative contract agreement has been reached between representatives of striking machinists and the Kroger Co., a company spokesman said Tuesday.

William Whiting, advertising manager of Krogers' Cincinnati-Dayton division, said details of the agreement would be announced after the union membership votes on ratification. He declined to give any other information.

Earlier Tuesday, striking Teamsters ratified a new three-year compromise contract with Krogers. The contract provides a three-year pay increase of $1.60 an hour, subject to lifting of the 5.5 per cent wage guidelines. The ratification vote was 142-30.

Garland Greer, Teamsters' business agent, said the drivers will not return to work until the other two unions striking the retail food chain come to terms.

No progress was reported in talks between Kroger officials and the third striking union group, the warehousemen.

The strike began July 22 when members of Teamsters Local 100 voted to refuse the original Kroger contract offer. Later in the week, Kroger warehousemen and mechanics voted to strike. Most company retail clerks also went on strike in sympathy with Teamster demands.

Despite the continuing strike, Whiting said all 67 area Kroger stores will be open regular hours Wednesday.

He said the full-time opening of all stores is possible because high school and college students are now sufficiently trained to help Kroger administrators, wives and secretaries man cash registers.

Rhodes plans meeting with county chairmen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Gov. James Rhodes, who is seeking another term in the statehouse under the theme "Let's Hear It for the Taxpayers," will meet with 70 Republican county chairmen here Aug. 9.

Rhodes said he won't ask the chairmen to make any commitment to his candidacy. "I just want to relate to them what is happening, what can happen and what must happen," he said.

The former governor said his campaign will begin officially Nov. 16 with a luncheon in Columbus.

Nixon housing costs now secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has clamped a lid on information about expenses at President Nixon's residences at San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla., but officials say it's only temporary.

Both the head of the General Services Administration (GSA) and a White House spokesman said the news embargo will be off as soon as a comprehensive report on public spending on Nixon's private residences is completed.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., accused the White House at a news conference Tuesday of attempting to block a congressional investigation of federal funds spent on Nixon's California and Florida residences.

He said GSA director Arthur F. Sampson refused to give him information he was seeking on the spending. Brooks is chairman of the Government Activities Committee.

Sampson, later in the day said the information was being withheld but not solely on White House orders.

"The decision was made jointly by GSA, the Secret Service and the White House," he said.

Sampson added:

"We have said all along that we were preparing a comprehensive statement to get out all the facts in an understandable manner. Our objective is to release the information all at one time to dispel the idea in the public's mind that large amounts were spent to improve the President's home. The piecemeal release of information has caused this misunderstanding."

At the White House, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said "we are working toward a complete analysis" and disclosure of what he called "security oriented work" at Nixon's homes.

He said the information would be available soon, but "I don't know how soon soon is."

Figures previously made public by the administration indicated a total of $1.9 million had been spent on the construction, operation and maintenance of security installations at San Clemente and Key Biscayne. The White House originally reported only $39,000 in improvements at San Clemente.

Recent news reports have predicted the GSA is about to issue new figures placing the figure at between $3.5 and $3.7 million.

$1,000 reward offered for poisoner of wolves

NEW YORK (AP) — A $1,000 reward has been offered in the search for the poisoner of two wolves that toured North America to promote the protection of endangered species.

Clem, a 4-year-old 110-pound Alaska tundra wolf, and Jethro, a 7-year-old 88-pound Canadia timber wolf, were found dead Sunday.

Giant snail fought in Florida

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It can grow to more than a foot long, protected by a five-inchwide shell.

It will eat the paint and stucco on your house and whatever's growing in your garden, leave its slimy stain on your walls, jam up your lawnmower and sabotage your air conditioner.

It's bisexual. And prolific— 600 offspring each year, almost two a day.

It's the giant African snail— no creature of the comic books or a satirical magazine but a continuing pest in Florida.

The government even has a Federal Giant African Snail Emergency regulation.

It was amended last week to lift quarantines on items the snails might hitchike on out of Broward County , Fla., and parts of Dade County, mainly north of Miami and Opa-Locka, a Miami suburb. But the Agriculture Department added a new area of Opa-Locka to the regulations, a southeastern section of the city where the snails were discovered in February.

A two-year survey found no new snails at the sites of Broward County's one outbreak and some Dade County infestations of the pest, a native of Africa not found elsewhere in the continental United States but spotted in Hawaii.

Two Dade County sites remain under the restrictions that prohibit travel of uninspected and uncertified home, garden and construction materials such as soil, compost, sand, gravel pipes, plant debris, sod and forest products.

The original outbreak was discovered in 1966, when an eight-year-old boy brought two of the nightmarish snails home from Hawaii in his pocket and freed them in the backyard of his grandmother's North Miami home.

Three years later, department scientists found 14,000 of the pests—250 were found in one woman's backyard in a half hour.

Taylor-Burton divorce planned

ROME (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor spent the day before the cameras today, Richard Burton stayed out of sight, and neither one had any public comment on their divorce plans.

A spokesman in New York for the Burtons announced Tuesday that they would get a friendly divorce in Switzerland, their legal residence.

"They are not going to fight each other," said the spokesman, John Springer. "They are very amicable toward each other."

He added that the Burtons are parting because of "a series of personal disagreements" and not because either one is romancing with somebody else.

Secret Service activity curbed

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Secret Service may not exclude persons from public presidential appearances because of their dress or political philosophy, a federal judge has ruled.

But U.S. Distrct Court Judge James B. McMillan said assuring the personal safety of the president is a valid reason to keep individuals away from the chief executive.

McMillan's ruling Tuesday came after lengthy hearings in an $840,000 civil suit filed by 14 youths against Secret Service Director James Rowley and local police officers. They said their constitutional rights were violated when they were forcibly prevented from attending Billy Graham Day ceremonies at the Charlotte Coliseum Oct. 14, 1971. President Nixon was present at the ceremonies.

Skylab crew plans full day of work as illnesses ease

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With their space station shipshape and their stomach woes nearly gone, the Skylab 2 astronauts today planned their first full day of experiments.

Emphasis was on medical experiments, but some scientific work was scheduled, as well as a checkout of earth resources photosensors to be used later in the week.

Astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma were in the fifth day of their record 59-day mission.

All three reported Tuesday they were feeling much better after bouts with motion sickness in their weightless world.

They were well enough Tuesday to forego medication for their queasy stomachs, but they still didn't have too much of an appetite at meal time.

The motion sickness slowed their work and they fell more than a day behind in setting up housekeeping in the laboratory. But the work essentially was completed Tuesday and Bean, a Navy captain, reported the lab was almost shipshape.

The sickness also forced postponement until Saturday of a space walk that had been planned for Tuesday by Garriott and Lousma. Purpose of the excursion will be to replace film in an array of solar telescopes and to erect a new protective sunshade to reinforce one installed by the Skylab 1 crew in May.

The astronauts also began an experiment to determine how two minnows react to weightlessness while swimming in a container of water.

"They seem to be completely disoriented," Garriott reported. "They're swimming pitched down in small circles. They apparently think they're climbing and they're pitching down to overcome that.... They're swimming in very tight circles. They can't make up their minds which is up or down."

Newark police interviews set

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Newark will begin interviews soon to fill the jobs of 22 patrolmen who were fired for calling in sick in a dispute over pay and fringe benefits, according to Police Chief Charles Spurgeon.

Spurgeon said city officials have asked for a civil service examination in August so new policemen can be hired.

An attorney for the policemen, Virginia Weiss, said the dismissals will be appealed to the city safety director. She contends that the mass sick call was not a strike and that the men should not have been fired.

Meanwhile wives and children of the fired policemen picketed city hall Tuesday. Witnesses said that more than 20 persons carried signs protested the firings.

'Brown market' in cattle seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Canadian meat packers are outbidding instate firms at auctions to produce a flourishing "brown market" in the wholesale cattle industry, say Ohio meat buyers.

Meanwhile, the Internal Revenue Service office in Cleveland said it has begun investigating reports that some meat packers have been offering to sell meat at illegal prices to commercial buyers.

At least one packing company, Dinner Bell Meats of Defiance, Ohio, said it will close its slaughter houses Wednesday because it was unable to purchase cattle at auction Monday.

Marshall crash litigation ends

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — U.S. District Judge K.K. Hall has closed the final litigation stemming from the 1970 Marshall University jetliner crash which killed 75 persons.

Hall did not disclose amounts of settlements reached.

Twenty-seven actions in numerous courts were transferred to the district court and two major pretrial hearings were held to discuss the applicability of West Virginia's wrongful death statute.

Phase 4 failing to sell itself?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Two weeks old today, Phase 4 seems not only to have failed in selling itself but to have fostered confusion and aroused a small but incendiary-looking rebelliousness.

The latter, for the moment, may seem to be isolated among beef raisers who decline to ship their product to market until after Sept. 12, when Stage B of Phase 4 will permit higher prices.

Meanwhile, packinghouse workers are being laid off and butchers in some areas are forced to limit sales to customers. At once, therefore, the heat of rebellion threatens to spread to labor and housewives.

Claism by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, that the shortage is unnatural and artificially induced by suppliers does little to make the problem less real, nor does it remove responsibility from government.

The fact is that in a series of phases, the federal government has assumed the role once played by the market place. If suppliers are withholding their product from market, well then, what is government going to do about it?

But this question is merely one small problem in the midst of a larger one, which is Phase 4 itself, whose stated goal is for "eventual decontrol through increased supplies and productivity."

Is it effective? Anyone can keep his own scorecard by referring to these stated objectives:

—To moderate the rate of inflation which has existed in the United States during the first six months of 1973 with a minimum adverse effect on supply.

—To continue expansion of the U.S. economy to fulfill its potential with further increases in employment.

—To strengthen the international position of the dollar.

—To build confidence of business, industry, agriculture, the Congress, and consumers necessary to promote an in increase in capacity and supply and to reduce long run inflationary forces.

—To work with business, industry, agriculture, and the public to terminate controls as soon as possible in a manner which will avoid unacceptable rates of inflation after Phase 4.

Growing price pressures that haven't yet been felt at the retail level now pose an ominous threat to that program and to economic stability. Little in Phase 4 suggests that higher prices can be averted.

The index of prices received by farmers for the month which ended July 15 did indeed drop, but only because export controls on soybeans led to a sharp drop to $6.69 a bushel from a price of about $10 a month earlier. But a sharp drop in soybean prices depresses the farm index, hiding the bad news about other prices.

Hog prices during the period rose to $41 per 100 pounds, a jump of $3.80 in one month. Potato prices of $8.03 a hundred were at a 50-year high.

Stage B will permit much of these higher prices to "passthrough" on a dollar for dollar basis.

See no progress in telephone talks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Contract talks between the General Telephone Co. and striking communications workers are scheduled to resume Thursday.

The two sides recessed Tuesday with no sign of progress.

Company spokesman Don Detweiler said the union's latest proposal was not significantly different from earlier ones.

Company negotiators were scheduled to meet today with members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in Minerva whose contract expires Sunday. Detweiler said the IBEW represents 150 operators and installer-repairmen in the Minerva district.

Tuesday's meeting between the company and the Communication Workers of America came after a three-day pause in negotiations. General Telephone negotiators had asked for the time to study the new union proposal.

Neither side has revealed details of the proposals. The union is reportedly asking for a 10 per cent raise. The company has offered a 7 per cent wage increase.

Meanwhile, vandals chopped through a 1,200-line telephone cable on the east side of Lucasville early Tuesday morning, cutting service to the Southern Ohio Correctionl facility.

A 3,000-line cable in downtown Portsmouth also was cut, isolating Southern Hills Hospital for the second time in two weeks.

Some 2,800 operators, repairmen and linemen walked off the job July 16 in a wage dispute.

The company claims that it has suffered $675,000 in damaged equipment and telephone lines since the strike began.

2 bombs found at Army offices

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Local officials and FBI agents today were continuing to investigate two bombs found in the offices of the Findlay and Bowling Green Army recruiting stations Tuesday.

The cylindrical bombs were removed without incident. They are believed to have been inserted through mail chutes.

The bombs were discovered following a warning sent to a radio station in Ann Arbor, Mich. by a group calling itself the "People's Revolutionary Army of North America."

The warning indicated that the bombs would be placed in the two offices. It also said that the group would pay for any damage caused nearby residents from the blasts.

Music being piped in for slaughter cattle

TOLLESON, Ariz. (AP) — Popular music, with brief breaks for weather and news, is piped around the clock to cattle being fattened at the Swift & Co. packing plant here.

About 400,000 cattle a year keep calm with the music as they lounge beneath the water sprays and sunshades that protect them from the desert heat.

"It's worked like a charm and has actually cut the amount of bruising by at least 50 per cent," the spokesman said. "The music makes for happier cattle and better meat, even if it doesn't exactly turn out bovine culture buffs."

Find Japanese beetles near San Diego Zoo

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Twelve Japanese beetles, destructive insects not normally found west of the Ohio River, have been trapped at Balboa Park near the San Diego Zoo, say county agriculture officials.

"So far, they're confined to the park as far as we know. We hope we can keep them there and wipe them out," said San Diego County Agricultural Commissioner Kenneth K. Little.

Less than one-sixth of the Sahara desert is sandy.

Driver cited in crash at intersection

One arrest resulted from three traffic accidents investigated by city police Tuesday.

Emilie Kerlin, 26, Fort Mitchell, Ky., was cited for failure to maintain assured clear distance after a 3:55 p.m. accident at the intersection of Dayton Avenue and Van Deman Street.

Police said the Kerlin car and one driven by Charles E. Yoss, 24, Scio, were eastbound on Dayton Avenue when Yoss stopped for a traffic signal. The Kerlin car hit Yoss' vehicle in the rear when it was unable to stop on the wet pavement.

The front bumper, both front fenders and headlights of the Kerlin car were damaged, while damage to Yoss' car was confined to the rear bumper.

In other accidents:

TUESDAY, 1:14 p.m. — Cars driven by Beverly J. Giacomini, 28, of 825 Clinton Ave., and Portia B. Cunningham, 35, Rt. 5, were involved in a rear-end collision at the intersection of Court Street and Circle Avenue; damage moderate.

TUESDAY, 3:05 p.m. — Cars driven by Floyd R. Hatcher, 35, Forest, and Harry T. Hayslip, 71, Rt. 1, were involved in a collision at the intersection of Delaware Street and Western Avenue; damage minor.

July soaks city with 6.77 inches

Washington C.H. got a real drenching in July, but some areas of the county experienced a goose-drowning month.

The precipitation total for the city, as tabulated by Coyt A. Stookey, official weather observer, was 6.77 inches, 2.80 inches in excess of the 3.97-inch average for the seventh month of the year. This brought the total for the year to date to a hefty 30.71 inches. The January-through-July average is 25.55, so the excess now stands at 5.16 inches.

Gale Parrett, who keeps the weather statistics at Parrot Station, in the Fayette County "rain belt" seven miles to the north, measured a whopping 11.51 inches of precipitation in July, with showers or thunderstorms on seven of the 31 days. In July, 1972, there were 18 days with rain but the total was only 5.74 inches.

Stookey's Washington C.H. report showed rain on 10 days, ranging from a trace on the 27th to 1.36 inches on the 15th, 1.51 inches on the 3rd and a soaking 2.53 inches on the 21st.

Daily maximum temperatures in the city ranged from a low of 73 on the 21st to a high of 89 on the 3rd, 8th, and 14th. Minimum daily temperatures ranged from a high of 72 on the 9th and 10th to a low of 53 on the 12th.

Here are the actual Washington C.H. precipitation figures for the year to date as compared with the established averages:

	Act.	Avg.
January	2.01	3.38
February	1.33	2.44
March	4.07	3.99
April	6.34	3.99
May	4.55	3.81
June	5.64	3.97
July	6.77	3.97
Totals	30.71	25.55

County gets relief money

Fayette County received $2,448 during July as a general relief subsidy, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. A total of $566,106 was distributed during the month to the state's 88 counties.

The subsidy program is wholly state-financed and is for the purpose of helping defray the administrative and general relief costs of the individual county welfare operations. It is in addition to federal-state financed assistance programs, such as Aid for Dependent Children, Aged, Disabled and Blind.

The amounts distributed to area counties were: Clinton, $2,550; Greene, $4,226; Highland, $3,474; Madison, $2,100; Pickaway, $2,382, and Ross, $6,306.

Hobart Co. posts record first half

TROY, Ohio — The best first half in the Hobart Manufacturing Co. history was recorded this year for both sales and net income, according to a report to shareholders released Tuesday, covering the first six months of 1973.

Net sales of $156,940,000 increased over the first half of last year by $35,201,000 or 28.9 per cent. Net income of $10,967,000 was $3,866,000 greater than the previous record in the first half of last year — and net income per share increased to 97 cents from 63 cents.

These new records exceeded by sizable margins the previous first-half records set in 1972, during which period three major production stoppages occurred, according to Hobart President and Chief Executive Officer David B. Meeker.

Hand-powered bike donated to crippled Cincinnati boy

CHISHOLM, Minn. (AP) — An 11-year-old Cincinnati, Ohio, boy will be the next recipient of a hand-powered bicycle—thanks to the people of Chisholm, Minn.

The bike, which is actually a large tricycle because it has three wheels, is the product of inventor Angello Vittori of Chisholm.

It is expected to be finished in about a month and will go to Chris Bochenek, who is paralyzed from the waist down because of a gun accident in May 1972.

The boy's father, Joseph, learned that Gov. George Wallace of Alabama was presented with a hand-powered vehicle by Chisholm residents, after Wallace was left paralyzed by an assassin's bullet.

The elder Bochenek wrote to Veda Ponikvar, publisher of the Chisholm Free Press, which led fund drives for the special Wallace bike and for several other cripples.

Bochenek wanted to purchase a hand-operated machine for his son. But Mrs. Ponikvar said a youth group at St. Mary's Catholic Church at nearby Keewatin, Minn., raised the $250 for the cost of the bike, along with enough money to ship it to Cincinnati.

Each bike is handmade by Vittori, who has a fulltime job as a mechanic at a nearby taconite plant.

The machine has a frontwheel drive and the impaired person steers the vehicle with the pedals. There are two wheels in the rear to give the bike greater stability.

Vittori vowed to build such a machine for persons with paralyzed legs after watching a Chisholm girl on crutches attempting to keep up with her companions on bikes.

Storms dot eastern third of nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms dotted the eastern third of the nation today while fair, dry and unseasonably cool weather descended on the mid-continent.

Thunderstorms crackled in the warm, humid air at scattered locations in the Gulf and south Atlantic states. Other thunderstorms erupted over the Ohio Valley and near a storm system off the southern coast of New England.

In the West, thunderstorms rolled over the Sierra Nevadas, the Colorado River Valley and the central and southern Rockies.

Heaviest rains were in the Southeast where 2.2 inches fell at Greenwood, Miss., and 1.3 inches at Bristol, Tenn.

Temperatures dropped into the 40s over the northern Mississippi Valley as cool, dry air settled into a wide area from James Bay in Canada to the southwest Plains.

Nighttime cooling also brought relief to the intermountain region which experienced 100-plus temperatures Tuesday.

Two range fires ignited by lightning Monday "blew up" late Tuesday, covering 35,000 acres in Idaho. Afternoon temperatures in the area reached above 100 as more than 300 men struggled to bring the blaze under control.

A spokesman for the Bureau of Land Management said he could not estimate when the Idaho fires could be controlled.

Dense fog and low clouds rolled over much of the Pacific coastal region.

'AW, GO AWAY! — "One more photograph and I'm going to scream," says Buda, an 8-week-old lion cub at Kings Island. Diane Roberts, a hostess in the park's Lion Country Safari preview center, says lion cubs, like children, can be very impatient at times, especially during photographic sessions.

Summertime temperatures of 120 degrees fahrenheit are common in the Sahara desert.

13-year-old boy in custody after liquor shoplift

A 13-year-old's taste for liquor led him into trouble Tuesday when he was arrested by city police for allegedly shoplifting a pint of "screwdriver."

Police said a clerk at K & K Carryout, 602 Clinton Ave., stopped the youth after he left the store with the bottle. The incident occurred about 12:35 p.m.

Police also received a report of a stolen bicycle. A 10-speed bike owned by Larry Johnson, 620 E. Paint St., was taken from a garage at the rear of his home sometime Sunday night, police were told. The bicycle was valued at $89.

City board OKs 4 new teachers

The Washington C. H. Board of Education met in special session Tuesday and approved a one-week cruise for the Junior Naval ROTC and the hiring of four new teachers.

The NJROTC, under the supervision of Commander Robert Self, retired, will leave Aug. 11 for Norfolk, Va., where they will spend a week aboard the U.S.S. Iwo Jima. The group will return Aug. 18.

The teachers who were hired are Robert Yates, distributive education; Richard Roth, biology; Mrs. Claudia Coe, elementary education and Mrs. Francis Tye, who will teach reading part-time.

B.F. Goodrich hit by harassment suit

HARTFORD (AP) — The B.F. Goodrich Co. used "surveillance and harassment" in an effort to force two Waterbury, Conn. rubber companies out of business according to a $28.5 million damage suit filed against the large Ohio firm by the two companies.

The suit contends that since 1967 representatives of B.F. Goodrich have "engaged in predatory practices aimed at eliminating" the Waterbury companies from the market.

Fayette County man sentenced on 3 charges

LANCASTER — Roy Penwell, 35, Rt. 5, Washington C. H., has been sentenced to three prison terms totaling 42 years in Fairfield County Common Pleas Court after his conviction on charges of breaking and entering, forcible entry into a safe and grand larceny.

Penwell was arrested in connection with a safecracking at a Fairfield County lumber firm in which $4,200 was stolen.

He was sentenced to 1-15 years for breaking and entering, 1-20 for forcible entry and 1-7 for grand larceny. The terms are to be served consecutively in Lucasville State Reformatory.

Lawrence E. Harp, of Kentucky, arrested on the same charges, has not yet come to trial.

Bengals gird for pre-season bow

Super Bowl champs on Cincy worksheet

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals open with the best this Saturday night when they take on the world champion Miami Dolphins in a pre-season game at the Orange Bowl. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. and a capacity crowd of more than 80,000 will be on hand.

Coach Don Shula's Dolphins already have a game under their belts, a 14-3 victory over the College All-Stars last Friday in Chicago.

"THIS WILL be the home opener in the pre-season for all their proud fans," said Paul Brown, Bengals' head coach and general manager. "They have a win streak going and they want to keep it that way.

"They are the National Football League champions and they deserve it," Brown added. "They are sound in every phase of the game and have a tremendous coach in Don Shula.

"Playing the Super Bowl champions in the first game of the pre-season isn't an easy task, but we know what we are in for," said Brown. "Miami is proficient in every phase of the game."

The Dolphins, who own an 18-game winning streak, have a balanced attack, featuring the running of Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Mercury Morris, the passing of quarterback Bob Griese and the receiving of Paul Warfield and Howard Twilley.

The Bengals will open the game with almost the same lineup they had last year. Ken Anderson, starting his third season, will be at quarterback and his wide receivers will be Charlie Joiner and Chip Myers. Essex Johnson and Doug Dressler will start at the running back positions.

The Bengals held their one and only training camp scrimmage last Saturday and running back Charles Clark, a 12th round draft choice from Bethune-Cookman, emerged as a top candidate for a starting spot.

"Clark ran well and blocked well and certainly merits a further look off his performance," Brown said. "He's the big back-type (6-2, 239-pounds) and appears to have plenty of potential."

ALL-PRO defensive tackle Mike Reid, defensive end Sherman White and tight end Bob Trumpy are on the doubtful list for the Miami game. Reid has a bruised knee, White is recovering from an off-season knee operation and Trumpy has a pulled back muscle.

The Bengals and Dolphins have met four times in pre-season play with each team winning two games. In 1969 the Bengals prevailed 28-21 and in 1971 it was Cincinnati 27, Miami 10. The Dolphins won 20-10 in 1970 and 35-17 last year.

The two teams also have split four regular season games.

The game will be televised by WLW-T in Cincinnati and will be broadcast on the "Bengals Network" with WLW the originating station.

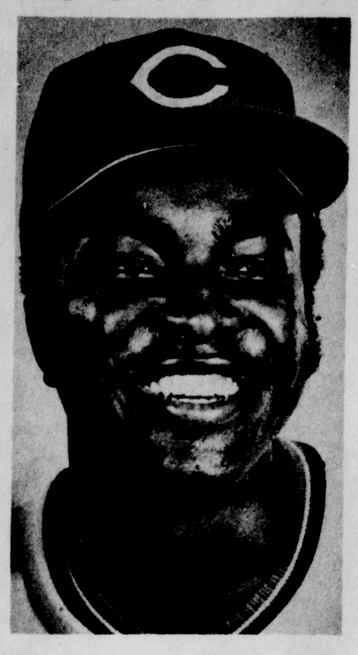
In the feature, Gee Wave was the winner, paying $5.80, $2.60 and $2.60. Second-place Limber Legs returned $3.20 and $2.60. Reeds Prince, in third-place, paid $2.60.

Virginia Slims tennis tourney under way

DENVER (AP) — Top-seeded Billie Jean King and Rosie Casals sped through their opening matches here Tuesday before 3,000 spectators, the largest second-night crowd on the Virginia Slims Women's Professional Tennis Tournament tour.

Mrs. King downed Pam O' Shaughnessy 6-1, 6-1, while Miss Casals coasted through a 37-minute match against Jill Schwikert, defeating her 6-0, 6-3.

In the longest match of the day, Karen Krantzcke and Kristien Kemmer volleyed through two even games which were decided by tiebreakers, the victory going to Miss Krantzcke 7-6, 7-6.



JOE MORGAN

Aaron delivers No. 701

Morgan's bat flogs Atlanta in twinbill

ATLANTA (AP)—It wasn't what you would call an artistic success, but for the Cincinnati Reds and Joe Morgan in particular, it was a highly successful evening.

Morgan, the Reds' All-Star second baseman, riddled the Atlanta Braves pitching staff for seven hits, including three two-run homers, the last one capping a five-run uprising in the nightcap for a 13-11 Reds victory after Cincinnati had taken the opener Tuesday 9-5.

Morgan's heroics overshadowed Braves' slugger Hank Aaron's 701st career home run, which was a solo shot in the ninth inning of the opener, his 28th of the year.

"That was the best doubleheader I have ever had," said a happy Morgan, who raised his average 11 points with a 7 for 10 evening and seven runs batted in. He also scored four runs, stole two bases and had a pair of doubles as he jumped to .299.

"Before the games I felt like I was trying to guide the ball. So I toled myself to forget it and swing hard," Morgan explained.

Morgan admitted he was just trying to get a single in the ninth inning of the nightcap with Pete Rose on second and the score tied at 11-11.

"I was just trying for a base hit. A single was called for and I was trying to hit the ball up the middle."

It did just that, except it kept going and went over the center field fence, 402 feet away from home plate and gave the Reds a sweep and got them within 3½ games of the West Division Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost to Houston.

"I figured we had a lock on the game going into the nihth inning," said Braves Manager Eddie Mathews. "It was really a long night, especially when you lose."

The doubleheader took 6 hours, 18 minutes of actual playing time to complete, in addition to a pair of rain delays totalling 32 minutes in the second contest.

In all, there were 38 runs scored, 52 base hits, 8 home runs, 2 triples and 10 doubles.

In addition to Morgan's three circuits, giving him 15 for the season, Cincinnati also got a three-run homer from Bill Plummer and a solo shot by Bobby Tolan in the nightcap and a two-run blast from Tony Perez in the opener.

Darrell Evans stroked his 30th for the Braves in the nightcap while Aaron and losing pitcher Carl Morton each had one in the first game.

Pete Rose, the NL's top hitter, also had a good night, stroking six hits and scoring five times in the twin bill.

Webster now trading bait

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers are loaded with talented linebackers, and former All-Pro George Webster realizes that makes him potential trade bait.

"I've kind of felt it," the 27-year-old former Michigan State All-American said before a recent training camp workout.

Pittsburgh is shopping for some help at wide receiver, and that makes the angular, broad-shouldered Webster even more expendable.

An All-Pro for three seasons with Houston before being hampered by knee injuries in 1970 and 1971, he came to Pittsburgh last season in a trade that sent wide receiver Dave Smith to Houston.

Webster said he believes his knee trouble is a thing of the past and that he can perform with his old efficiency.

He reported to camp shortly after having four wisdom teeth pulled, so he wasn't up to par in initial workouts.

He's come on strong in recent drills, but the cold fact exists that he's competing at the most top-heavy positions on the Steeler team.

Meanwhile, defensive end Craig Hanneman was carried from the Pittsburgh Steelers' practice field with an injured right knee Tuesday. The extent of his injuries will be determined later today.

The Steelers said another second-year man, wide receiver Stahle Vincent, would undergo surgery on his right knee today. Vincent, who injured the knee last week, spent all of last season on the injured reserve list with an injured ankle and thumb.

Around other NFL training camps Tuesday, Minnesota Viking Coach Bud Grant sent his team through its longest scrimmage yet, a session highlighted by defensive end Carl Eller's charge into the backfield that sent rookie running back Tony Chandler reeling for several yards after a pitchout.

Center Mick Tingelhoff was kept out of action after he was hit on a knee while running back Clint Jones sat out the afternoon practice after his knee developed some fluid.

At Normal, Ill, Coach Don Coryell of the St. Louis Cardinals stressed fundamentals as his team went through a double practice session in preparation for its first preseason game at San Diego Aug. 11.

The New Orleans Saints had running back Pete Van Valkenburg, third-round draft choice from Brigham Young, back in action. He rejoined the squad for the first time since pulling a hamstring muscle two weeks ago.

Tackle Don Croft, one of the Buffalo Bills' few defensive standouts last season and seemingly assured of a starting position this season, underwent surgery at Buffalo General Hospital for torn ligaments in his right knee. He injured the knee in scrimmage Monday and will be out for an indefinite period, the Bills said.

The Dallas Cowboys said wide receiver Bob Hayes and outside linebacker D.D. Lewis are the only doubtful starters for the team's exhibition opener against the Los Angeles Rans Friday night.

Hayes is complaining of a sore knee and Lewis pulled a groin muscle during workouts.

Torrid Weiskopf favorite in rich Westchester golf

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—Tom Weiskopf, suddenly the hottest property in golf, seeks a further domination of the pro tour in the rich Westchester Classic this week, but troubled Lee Trevino will be among the missing in the $250,000 event.

Weiskopf, who has won the British and Canadian national titles in his last two starts and is the winner of five of his last eight starts, is the favorite for the $50,000 first prize in the 72-hole tournament that gets underway Thursday.

The site is the tight and tidy Westchester Country Club course, at 6,164 yards one of the shortest the touring pros play all season. But it's hills and vales, woods and glens make it a demanding test with a premium on driving.

But while Weiskopf was geared up to continue his streak, Trevino took some unscheduled time off. He'd committed to play in this event but decided to go home to El Paso, Tex. and his wife, who is expecting their third child. Trevino indicated that he may skip the PGA next week as well.

He, along with Billy Casper, are about the only glamor names missing in the 147-man field.

Weiskopf's chief challenge comes from powerful Jack Nicklaus, the defending champion who hasn't played since the British Open three weeks ago.

He's a four-time winner this season, ranks third on the money list and—at least until Weiskopf began his heroics—generally was regarded as the game's premier performer.

Other top attractions include Australian Bruce Crampton, a former Westchester champion who has won four times this year and tops the money winning list with more than $241,000; South African Gary Player; U.S. Open titleholder Johnny Miller and the still-dangerous Arnold Palmer, who has finished 10th or better in four of his last five starts.

The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by Hughes Sports Network.

Slo-pitch tourney slated at Ashville

ASHVILLE — An ASA-sanctioned slo-pitch softball tournament for Class B and Class C teams will be held Aug. 18 - 19 at Ashville.

The entry fee is $35 and the drawing will be held Aug. 15 at the Ashville community shelter house. Interested teams can contact Jerry Owens (983-2525), Mike Gray (983-4066) or John Sharp (983-3978).

Bengals not eating well; meat shortage hits camp

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Members of the Cincinnati Bengals football team are finding things like lasagna and spaghetti on the dining table these days as a result of the beef shortage.

"It's a tremendous problem. At the moment, we're getting one-sixth of what we're ordering," said Wayne Brewer, who is in charge of seeing that the Bengals get enough to eat.

Brewer, food service director at Wilmington College, said his meat supply has dwindled from an average of 800-1,000 pounds a week to 400.

To combat the problem, Brewer said he's been forced to add more fish, poultry and prok to the daily menu.

"And we go with the fillers like lasagna and spaghetti. In addition, they'll average about seven to 10 pounds a day of cold cuts," he said.

Brewer said close tabs are kept on daily consumption by the 75-80-member Bengal group.

It's a big family to keep fed, but the Bengal organization cuts no budget corners when it comes to food, Brewer said.

"Quantity and quality, it's first-class all the way. They want the players well-fed and that's what we try to do," he said.

For instance, last week's grocery list looked like this:

—180 pounds of dinner carved prime rib.

—120 pounds of stripped New York cut steak.

—145 T-bone steaks.

—137 14-ounce stripped sirloin.

—75 whole chickens.

"We started out with meat making up 80 per cent of the menu. Now we're down below 50 per cent. The shortage is a serious problem. Who would believe a nation as rich as ours could have this happen?" pondered Brewer.

He figures food costs average $7.50 and $9.50 per day per player for the National Football League club.

Isaac Curtis injury worrisome to Brown

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Bengals Coach Paul Brown said Tuesday the injury Monday to wide receiver Isaac Curtis, Cincinnati's first round draft choice, bothers him.

"I hope he gets over it quickly enough to learn what we're doing," Brown said of the rookie who has just reported to the team from the college All-Star squad. "We plan to keep him playing behind Joiner at the start to watch him closely."

Winning by a head in 2:06 2-5, Anita Brewster paid $4.80, $3.80 and $3. Easy Direct returned $7.20 and $4 for second and Miracle Widow, $4.80 for show.

Tri Chapel and Sun Chief combined for a 2-4 daily double payoff of $33.80, and the 8-9 quinella was worth $66.60.

A crowd of 4,830 wagered $225,958.

Hartman set for USAC race crown

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Larry "Butch" Hartman, shaking another of his typical slow starts this season, accelerates toward an unprecedented third straight U.S. Auto Club stock car crown.

His Dodge Charger didn't finish a race in the first two months this year, yet the 33-year-old veteran owned a 30-point lead over runnerup Ramo Scott in the current USAC point standings last week.

"We always get off to a slow start. I just can't explain it," said Hartman.

He swept by Scott, the season-long USAC pacesetter, with victories in three of his last four starts and loomed a favorite for the Pocono (Pa.) 500-mile Classic Sunday.

Hartman had 1,195 points to Scott's 1,165 with eight major races remaining this year.

No one ever has won three straight titles in USAC history although Norm Nelson collected three championships in several seasons.

Hartman followed a different path to the 1972 title. He failed to win a single race, but finished second four times, third and fourth three times each in 18 USAC events.

"I'm winning more this year because we've got a new car," he explained. "It's running better although the engine's about the same."

Orioles stop Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Baltimore Orioles pitcher Jim Palmer has the Cleveland Indians in the palm of his hand, but he doesn't know why.

Palmer allowed the Indians only three hits Tuesday night as the Orioles beat the Tribe 5-1. The right-handed hurler has beaten the Indians the three times he has faced them this season and has allowed them only seven hits.

"I don't know why I do so good against the Indians," Palmer said. "They have a good ball club. Good hitters, good fielders—I just don't know why I do well against them. Granted they haven't been getting the pitching they need, but they're youngsters—give them time."

The one run the Tribe put on the scoreboard came in the eighth inning when Charlie Spikes hit his 19th home run of the season over the left field fence.

"I didn't have the right grip on the ball," said Palmer, who is now 13-6 and leads the Orioles in victories. "It was an inside pitch that just hung in there, but Spikes pulled it. I knew it was over the fence as soon as he hit it."

Palmer said he threw mostly fastballs.

Plenty to Eat wins

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Plenty to Eat, leading all the way, held off a late challenge to win Tuesday's featured $2,600 eighth race at River Downs by a half-length.

He ran the six furlong race on a sloppy track in 1:13 2-5 seconds.

Madison Lake Park offers plenty of room to relax

"There's room here to spread a blanket and relax."

That is the one-liner description of Madison Lake State Park used by Park Manager Martin Rulless.

There's more, of course, but Russell wanted to make the point that this 183-acre park, located on the green, rolling farm country of Madison County west of Columbus, is the perfect place for a family picnic.

Among the park's many features are cool, tree-shaded picnic areas, good fishing and swimming, large grassy play fields and remote places to hike and explore the beauty of the natural world.

"Madison Lake is a good example of the concept that a park doesn't have to encompass thousands of acres to provide a day of fun-filled activity," said Jack Miller, chief of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources' parks and recreation division.

Madison Lake is little known to those outside the immediate area. Those traveling in the area stay on I-70, about eight miles north, and miss the opportunity to enjoy the park's many facilities.

"Not many people know the park is here," Russell said. "We get many visitors coming into the park saying that they were just driving by and happened to see the sign."

Madison Lake is on Ohio 665 about five miles southeast of London. The park is a 45-minute drive from Columbus, 60 minutes from Dayton and 30 minutes from Springfield.

The park includes a 100-acre tree-lined lake which supplies anglers with good catches of crappie, channel catfish, bass and walleye. For the non-fisherman, the lake is perfect for sailing, canoeing and rowboating; however, no gasoline motors are permitted.

Swimming completes the list of water-related activities. A large, sand swimming beach borders the lake and a lifeguard is on duty during swimming hours.

Family picnickers remain cool and comfortable through long, sultry Ohio summers in the large picnic area which overlooks the lake. Picnickers are shaded by tall oaks and hickories and are cooled by refreshing breezes blowing across the lake.

A small five-acre natural area at the north end of the lake shelters ducks, other waterfowl and songbirds, plus a wide variety of upland game. Waterfowl hunting is permitted in season.

Park manager Russell, in his third year at Madison Lake, said the lake was built in 1937 through cooperative efforts of Madison County sports clubs and the State of Ohio.

Madison Lake State Park can be reached from the west by taking I-70 to Ohio 56, then south on Ohio 56 to London. From London, take Ohio 665 to the park. From the east, the park can be reached by taking I-70 to Ohio 142, then south to London.

Dairy products to increase in price soon, firms believe

By TERESA C. PITTS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio dairy firms are predicting a two to four cent jump in cheese, butter and ice cream prices in the next few weeks as a result of this week's penny increase for raw milk.

Farmers began charging one cent more per quart for raw milk Monday, their first substantial increase since federal price regulations began.

Stores are allowed to pass the cost on to their customers under federal price guidelines.

Velvet Ice Cream Co. executive Joe Dager of Columbus, said Tuesday the firm's half gallon price would probably rise three cents by Aug. 6.

A spokesman for the Borden Co., headquartered in Columbus, said "there definitely will be an increase in the near future."

Wholesale butter prices, which have jumped eight cents in the last two weeks, will continue to rise, the spokesman said.

The increases for milk products were greater than the increase in raw milk because most are made with concentrated butter fat, explained Donald Zehr, general manager for the Central Ohio Cooperative Milk Producers.

The more butter fat, the greater will be the cost increase. Ice cream will go up more than ice milk, creamed cottage cheese more than dry and whole milk more than skim milk, he said.

But Zehr and other suppliers said they didn't expect a great deal of reaction to the increases.

"I think people have gotten used to paying higher prices for food," Zehr said. "Milk only started going up last year, and it still hasn't increased as much as other foods have."

Dairymen could expect another penny or more boost in September, he said, depending on the fall feed grain crop.

"Estimates look pretty rosy at this time, but an early frost could mean the difference," he said, "The weather is always the variable."

United Dairy Farmers prices Tuesday were $1.27 a gallon, 67 cents per half-gallon and 38 cents a quart.

Opening lead - six of spades.

The Rule of Eleven can be used to advantage by either side. It is based on the widely accepted custom of leading the fourth best card of a suit.

Thus, when West leads the six of spades — the fourth best card of his longest suit — both East and South can apply the Rule.

South subtracts six (the card led) from eleven. The answer tells him there are five spades higher than the six in the North, East and South hands. He sees one of them in dummy and one in his hand, so he knows that East has three spades higher than the six. This doesn't help South in the present case, but that's the method he uses to acquire the information.

East applies the Rule in the same way, and in this instance with highly beneficial effect. He also knows that North, East and South have five spades higher than the six. Since he has three of them and dummy one, he knows that declarer has only one spade above the six.

East makes use of this knowledge in choosing his line of defense. After he plays the spade jack on the opening lead, which loses to the king, South leads a diamond to the king and a diamond back. On this trick East discards his queen of spades!

When West wins the diamond, he is in fine position to cash his spades and defeat the contract two tricks.

Now let's suppose East is unfamiliar with the Rule of Eleven. In that case he might discard a heart or a club instead of the queen of spades, and West would then find it mighty difficult to lead the ace of spades.

West might be afraid that South had started with the K-Q-x of spades and lead a heart or a club to try to put partner on lead for a spade return. Either play would hand South the contract.

Weight Loser's Bout with Gout

I have lost 15 pounds on a high fat diet, but seem to have gained the annoying condition of gout. Can there be any relationship between the two?

Mr. B.L., Ohio

Dear Mr. L.:

It is difficult to believe that you could have come to this scientific conclusion alone, without the help and understanding of your own doctor. For this observation has been made many times by physicians. In fact, it is a major reason for avoiding attractive sounding but potentially hazardous "way out" diets. Of course, there is always the possibility that a high uric acid level existed in your blood prior to embarking on this diet. In any case, it is important that any gouty tendency that you have be kept under observation and treatment.

There are many excellent drugs which can lower the level of uric acid in your blood stream. These drugs are taken under a doctor's direction and adjusted at regular intervals depending on the findings of repeated blood examinations.

Your story serves a very important purpose. It emphasizes that no tempting, new-fangled diet should be undertaken without a doctor's approval. Every diet has a new twist with a single objective. It is to tempt people who want to lose weight by eating unlimited quantities, by drinking alcohol to excess, and by doing little or no exercise. A single truth about good dieting must again be emphasized. Count your calories and limit them, while readjusting deeply ingrained eating patterns. Only in this way can you lose weight without inviting the kind of complication your describe.

My daughter and I are absolutely miserable for five days before our menstrual period sets in. I have grown to accept this, but I wish something could be done for my daughter, so that she does not have the lifelong problem that I have had.

Mrs. R.T., Ga.

Dear Mrs. T.:

I don't know how old your daughter is, but I gather she is an adolescent or young adult. I certainly do not think that one week out of four of discomfort is a necessary burden to be borne with such stoicism.

Gynecologists have long since abandoned the idea that such misery is a normal and accepted part of the menstrual process. Advancements in the past 25 years have been remarkable. There are a variety of well chosen hormones that can help readjust the cycle and avoid the intensity of discomfort. First, of course, the presence of any malformations must be ruled out. In the absence of these, the chances are great that you distress can be alleviated.

The actual period of discomfort is bad enough, but the anticipation of it throughout the month can really alter the physical and emotional life of people burdened with this complaint.

Americans are dirty fatties

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Americans apparently are better fed than scrubbed. Over 95 per cent of all American homes in 1970 per cent of all American homes in 1970 boasted complete kitchens, including hot and cold running water, according to the Building Components Division of the Rockwell International Corp. here.

Only slightly more than 93 per cent, however, could claim a bathroom with hot and cold running water, a flush toilet and bathtub or shower, the producer of plumbing supplies said.

Rockwell also found that Americans were willing to pay a mighty price to keep their bathrooms and kitchens serviced with running water. Total annual cost of home improvements, maintenance and repair for plumbing is more than $1.4 billion.

Weariness hits Watergate probe

LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their eyelids droop and faces sag. Sometimes their tempers flare.

Early mornings and late nights, and 32 days of hearings over nine weeks have left their mark on the seven Watergate committee senators.

The senators and their staffs are plainly tired.

Three of them want to stop for a rest, but four want to continue working.

"When you see Chairman Ervin cock his elbow and poke Sam Dash in the ribs, he's not mad at him, he's just trying to keep him awake," one senator remarked of Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. and Samuel Dash, the chief counsel.

Since the Senate Watergate hearings opened last May 17 senators have examined 29 witnesses whose testimony is now spread over more than 6,500 pages of official transcript.

The committee staff has conducted more than 200 private interviews with witnesses and potential witnesses.

It has sifted through thousands of pages of records and documents and recordings, and spent scores of thousands of hours trying to get answers to the constant questions of who, what, where, how and why?

"It's really hard to describe how tired the staff is," said Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., who has been one of the main advocates of a month-long August recess.

"Everybody is snapping at everybody ... and its not a gauge of anything in my mind except how tired everybody is," said Baker.

Baker and two other senators contended the country needed a rest from Watergate as much as they did. They said it would be far better to take an August vacation and come back fresh in September.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and three other senators contended that no matter how tired people got, the hearings must go on without interruptions until the question of possible presidential involvement had been thoroughly explored.

The final vote to continue the hearing after Congress recesses Aug. 3 was taken in private and the names of who voted which way were not released.

"After we voted to go on after a four to three vote, everybody started snarling at each other," said Baker.

Cambodian war action heavier

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian troops launched a new drive southwest of Phnom Penh today in an attempt to relieve the pressure of insurgent forces on the city's southern defense perimeter.

U.S. B52 bombers hammered at insurgent positions seven miles south of Phnom Penh along the Prek Thnot river, while American F111s, Phantoms and Corsairs were in action on several sectors around the city. The thunder of U.S. bombs shook Phnom Penh continually.

The Cambodian command said government infantrymen and armored personnel carriers moved out west of the embattled village of Prateah Lang, nine miles southwest of the capital, in an "important attack."

Canton couple killed

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A Canton man, Arthur Davis, 79, and his 73-year-old wife, Audrey, were killed in a car accident at an intersection north of here Tuesday.
